SCULLING.

£100 THAMES RACE.

An interesting sculling race for £100 a side, in which the principals were two young Thames watermen, Arthur Gibbs (Richmond) and George Gobbett (Greenwich), was decided over the championship course, Putney to Mortlake, yesterday. Both are winners of Doggett's Coat and Badge, and the betting suggested that they were well matched. Gobbett led at the start, but Gibbs caught him at the Mile Post, and, having matters all his own way, won easily by five lengths in the good time of 23 mins. 5 secs.

KILBEGGAN MEETING—YESTERDAY.

Despite the many difficulties which had to be contended with in order to reach the course, there was a splendid attendance at Kilbeggan yesterday, and under perfect summerlike conditions an interesting programme was discussed. Queen of Gypsies led for most of the way in the Brusna Plate, but half a mile from home was headed by Duration, who won in easy style. Jacobstadt proved the best of a moderate lot of horses entered for the Midland Plate, and another strong favourite in Scotch Ben won the Loughnagore Plate. Grey Knight, the favourite for the Stand Plate, was beaten by Signet Ring, but subsequently was awarded the race on an objection being lodged for crossing, and Mr. H. M. Hartigan's stable scored another success in the succeeding event with Village Maid. Details:—

1.45.—THE BRUSNA PLATE of 21 sovs. A handicap hurdle race. 1½ m.
Mr. R. G. Adamson's br. m. DURATION, by Druce—Gloc, a, 9-9 ....M. Tierney 1

Mr. B. Cellumb's Granard Boy, 4, 10-2 J. Costelloe 0
Mr. W. F. Mallon's Asiatic Annie, a, 10-0 J. Lynn 0
(Winner trained by Owner.)
Betting—5 to 2 each agst. DURATION, Queen of Gypsies, and Mistrust, 6 to 1 St. Mona, 100 to 8 any other.
Queen of Gypsies led from Asiatic Annie, Mistrust, Shkehagh, and Duration, with Tiny Ways last. Half a mile from home Duration headed Queen of Gypsies, and, making the remainder of the running, won easily by four lengths; two lengths divided second and third. Granard was fourth, Tiny Ways fifth, Mistrust sixth, Shkehagh seventh, and Ballyharney next.
2.15.—MIDLAND PLATE of 21 sovs. A handicap flat race. 1¼ m. 50 yds.
Mr. J. J. Kennedy's b. g. JACOBSTADT, by Kroonstadt—Marriage Bell, a, 10-0 M. Moroney 1

Mr. James Yourell's General Blane, a, 9-9 P. Connors 0
(Winner trained by Mr. H. S. Kenny.)
Betting—Evens JACOBSTADT, 4 to 1 each Kosmosdoon and Validity, 100 to 16 any other.
General Blane set the pace to Jacobstadt, Kosmosdoon, and Validity, with Sweet Home last. This was the order until half a mile from home, when Jacobstadt drew to the front, and, making the remainder of the running, won easily by five lengths; a neck divided second and third. General Blane was fourth.
3.0—LOUGHNAGORE PLATE of 21 sovs. A weight for age steeplechase. 2 m.

Betting—6 to 4 agst. Her Boy, 2 to 1 VILLAGE MAID, 6 to 1 each Clyden Web and Floral Way, 10 to 1 any other.
Floral Way set the pace to Village Maid, Little Brown Jug, Jill, Her Boy, and Minnow, for half the journey, when Minnow collided with the rails and threw her rider. Jill then went on from Village Maid, Floral Way, and Her Boy, but was headed below the distance by Village Maid, who won easily by five lengths; four lengths between second and third. Her Boy was fourth, Donacullagh fifth, and Weather Cross next.

RACECOURSE GLEANINGS.

YORK SPRING MEETING.
PRIMA DONNA'S SMART WIN.
(SPECIALLY CONTRIBUTED.)
YORK, MONDAY NIGHT.

If the opening of the Spring Meeting on the Knavesmire was a trifle tame, it was only what one is accustomed to here, for Monday racing is not as popular with the Yorkshire crowd as it is in the Midlands, whilst on the opening afternoon at this particular fixture runners are never too numerous.

Carslake made the journey specially to ride Golden Corn and Vivaldi for Hugh Powney's stable, leaving after racing for Bath, where he has several mounts. The best thing of the pair was supposed to be Golden Corn, who was running for the first time. She will undoubtedly win good races, but now found one much too smart for her in another racing-like filly, Prima Donna, who evidently benefited from having had her eyes opened last week at Redcar.

Thwaites, who rode her, had drawn the rails position, and slipped away in front, and the further she went the longer became the margin by which she led the favourite. It was a particularly taking performance, and I have no reason to doubt the estimate that she is the smartest two-year-old trained in the North.

"Who is P. Mason?" was the general paddock inquiry when it was seen that the jockey had the mount on Illuminator in the Londesborough Stakes. It was not generally remembered that Mason served his apprenticeship with R. C. Dawson at Whatcombe. He has since been riding with success in India. Mason's handling of Illuminator came in for some criticism, but the fact is that his jockeyship was all right. The horse, however, does not stay the mile; neither does Foundation, as had been demonstrated in the Two Thousand Guineas.

Lord Durham, who has not been racing very frequently this season, had made the journey to see Chrysopolis run, but he only appeared early on the scene, and, though shouted loudly by the crowd, could make no impression whatever on Vivaldi.

The Yorkshire stables hoped amongst them to provide the winner of the Flying Dutchman Welter Handicap, for the class engaged was not brilliant. However, both Enniskeen and Halfpenny House found one too good in Desmond House, who had not been out before this season, but was successful at Warwick last November in his last previous outing.

Lord Lonsdale, one of the Stewards of the meeting, took the Zetland Plate with Enrichment, a well-built Tracery filly. She must be accounted very lucky, however, for the saddle of the Butterfly Belle colt, in the colours of the local M.F.H., Captain Harry Whitworth, slipped inside the distance, and though Colling stuck on till reaching the post, he was thrown a yard beyond it. Enrichment had travelled from Newmarket by motor van on Sunday, the journey taking eight and a half hours.

SPORTING PARAGRAPHS.

The Sligo Race Meeting fixed for May 31st has been abandoned.

A. Garnett, the well-known middle-weight jockey, who went to South Africa to ride there for Mr. S. B. Joel, is on his way to England to ride the gentleman's horses trained by De Mestre at Newmarket.

Warwick Armstrong, the popular Australian cricket captain, celebrated his 42nd birthday on Sunday.

Entries close to-morrow for the Down Royal (Maze) Charity Meeting, to be held on Saturday, June 25th, the entire profits from which will be divided between the Mater Infirmorum and Royal Hospital, Belfast. The half-dozen events on the programme are value 140 sovs. each.

CHANTICLEER'S NOTES.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)
YORK, MONDAY NIGHT.

The opening stage of the York Meeting was by no means up to the general average, whether viewed from the standpoint of racing or attendance. Moreover, the ground is rapidly hardening, and on that account Redhead will not fulfil the engagement to-morrow in the Great Northern Handicap, which may fall to whose Newmarket form behind Silvern and Devizes must be borne in mind. My selections for the other races are:—

Stamford Handicap—The Shark or Sybil.
Tyro Plate—Post Haste colt.
Craven Handicap—Bumble Bee or Tric Trac.
Eglinton Stakes—Chemistry.
Melrose Handicap—Little Vic or Aislabie.
Apprentices' Plate—Fragola.

At Bath on the opening day the following may win:—

Lansdown Stakes—Jenny Lantern filly.
Tradesman Handicap—Johnny Syme or Far Isle.
Bath Handicap—Tagrag.
Dodington Handicap—Kamakura or Grivet.
Badminton Plate—Vertumver.
Dyrham Park Plate—Petrea.

THE BURBERRY

A freedom-giving, lissom, perfect weatherproof, remarkably light, a shade for coolness, yet possessing wonderful naturally protecting warmth—that is
with its dominating air of distinction, so fitting in a top-coat to wear whenever sport, travel and social occasions make their call. There, then and always the indispensable is made from cloths ordered in the latter part of the War (before the great rise in costs) to replace their standard make had their own mills failed to keep up necessary supplies.
THE BURBERRY
Burberrys are disposing of a certain number of their famous weatherproofs at FIVE GUINEAS
THE 5-GN. BURBERRY
conforms to the 6½-Gn. Burberry (the regular price to-day), with one exception, the materials are piece-proofed, not yarn-proofed. This, therefore accounts for such an

Madame Annette, the expert fitter from the Royal Worcester Corset Company, Is demonstrating TO-DAY and daily throughout this week At PIM BROS., LTD., the New Season's Models of the

Royal Worcester Kidfitting Corsets

AMERICA'S FINEST PRODUCTION

Style is the Creation of Genius

It cannot be bought by every corset maker, like coutil, busks, and steels can.
When you buy Royal Worcester Kidfitting Corsets you get, in addition to quality, in addition to fit, in addition to comfort, the STYLE which gives your dressess that subtle touch of distinctiveness, and which is so expressive of the master-designer's skill—a skill that can be termed nothing less than genius. It is this style-superiority that distinguishes Royal Worcester Kidfitting Corsets from the ordinary. Every design is the creation of the world's highest-salaried corset designers, and cannot be obtained in any other make, even at a higher price.

Revealing the first really important fashion change for seven years, the new styles of these famous corsets will prove, by reason of their authenticity, to be of even greater interest than usual to the well-gowned woman of to-day.

Prices 4/6 to 7/6 in the £ lower than last season.

Madame Annette will demonstrate all the new features of the ROYAL WORCESTER and BON TON Kidfitting Corsets.

With these Corsets, Madame has helped thousands of ladies to attain what all admire—a graceful figure. Styles change, lines change, and the new dress needs a new up-to-date Corset to do it justice.

We therefore invite every lady to take advantage of the brief visit of this clever fitter and corsetry expert.

Here is an opportunity to procure the World's best corset at the lowest possible price. You run no risk. You buy a Corset that is certified correct at 25 to 35% Reduction on last season's prices.

POST ORDERS Receive Immediate Attention.

GOLF.

THE AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP.
LEADING AMERICAN PLAYERS SURVIVE FIRST ROUND.
IRISH OPEN CHAMPION'S SURPRISING DEFEAT.
MAJOR HEZLET STRIKES HIS BEST FORM.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)

HOYLAKE, MONDAY NIGHT.

With a cloudy sky and a fair breeze play promised to be more interesting than in the glare of Saturday. Major Charles Hezlet was the first Irishman off, against Guy Farrar, a strong local player. Winning the first hole Hezlet should have won the second, but he took the third, and, out in [illegible] was 3 up. Doing the next two holes in 3, and [illegible] picking up at the 13th, Hezlet won 8 and [illegible] was officially reported. Having [illegible] Hezlet all through the 1914 Championship, [illegible] must do well here, as he is playing [illegible] and is bold on the greens when the [illegible] are scared. He is still playing the cleek [illegible] in preference to a brassie, and, with his [illegible] match play reputation, his chances are as [illegible].

Major Boyd had a walk-over, as Platt (U.S.A.) had the misfortune to injure his knee in a fall. Joseph Gorry won easily from Captain Read. Falls, [illegible] down at the turn, made a great recovery, and [illegible] all square at the 16th, but he messed up the [illegible] and was beaten on the 18th. F. P. [illegible] had the bad luck to have his putter stolen, [illegible] upset him for his match with [illegible] out in 39, was all square at the [illegible] did not favour him on the way [illegible] and he lost on the 16th green. Usually a [illegible] putter, he was at sea with the new club. [illegible] had a fine match with Chilton, who [illegible] 5th round of last year's championship. [illegible] two stymies on the outward journey, and Chilton had a very lucky 7th hole, which was the turning point. Two down at the turn, Soulby [illegible] 37, but was beaten 1 up.

The Irish hopes were largely centred in the Irish Open Champion, E. C. Carter, who started badly, [illegible] the first hole when he should have won. At [illegible] his ball was trodden on and driven into [illegible]. The third hole he [illegible] a bad second. Hunter at first gave [illegible] played steadily from the third hole, [illegible] at the turn, and out in 37, with one [illegible]. On the homeward journey Carter hit [illegible] the 11th, and, getting down in 2, won, [illegible] and the match ended on the [illegible]. This was a severe blow to the Irish, [illegible] and Gorry survived the day's play, [illegible] Boyd passing into the second round [illegible].

Walker [illegible] met a fine player in the Yorkshire [illegible] Hodgson, who was 3 up at the turn [illegible] stymying Carroll. Hodgson played [illegible].

A [illegible] crowd followed the veteran John Ball [illegible] his match, to everyone's delight. [illegible] Ball might do well in the present [illegible]. Locally they are backing Ball.

ATHLETICS AND CYCLING.

DUBLIN U.H. AND A.C. CHAMPIONSHIPS.

The Dublin U.H. and A.C. held their first annual championships in the College Park yesterday, in splendid weather, before a good attendance. The surprise of the afternoon was the defeat of D. J. Cussen in the 220 Yards by Worthington-Eyre, after a great race. Eyre did not run in the Furlong at Lansdowne road on Whit Monday, and, it will be remembered, was beaten by McEachern in the Quarter. Yesterday he also ran the Quarter in good style from eight opponents, and is evidently finding his best form. D. J. Cussen easily won the 100 Yards and Long Jump, and another double event winner was D. A. Quinlan, who cleared 5 ft. 8¼ ins., which is 3¼ inches better than he did when winning yesterday week at Lansdowne road. He also won the Hurdles easily, and in each case J. A. Dickson, the Rugby captain, was second. The South African Rugby forward, J. Van Druten, beat W. L. Smith, in the Shot with a putt of 34 ft. 5¼ ins. to 33 ft. 8½ ins. McKeag seemed to be beaten 160 yards in the Half-Mile, but came with a rush to win easily at the finish from Glasgow, who later on easily accounted for the Mile. At the conclusion the Cups and Medals were presented to the successful competitors by Lady Woods. Details:—

100 YARDS.—1st Heat—D. J. Cussen, 1; H. M. Martin, 2. Also ran—J. A. Dickson, R. W. Varian. Won easily by 3 yards. Time—10 2-5 secs. 2nd Heat—H. E. Worthington-Eyre, 1; T. S. Broderick, 2. Also competed—S. S. Evans, W. A. Redmond, L. O. Vercueil. Won by half a yard. Time—10 3-5 secs.

FINAL.

Cussen ... 1
Worthington-Eyre ... 2
Broderick ... 3

Won by a yard; a foot between second and third. Time—10 3-5 secs.

HALF-MILE.—R. H. McKeag, 1; J. S. Glasgow, 2; M. C. Falkiner, 3. Also ran—R. K. Dickie, G. Robinson, C. E. Strong, T. C. Wallis, K. F. McKenzie. Glasgow led till 80 yards from home, when McKeag came out and won by 4 yards; 20 yards between second and third. Time—2 mins. 6 1-5 secs.

PUBLIC AMUSEMENTS.

THE GAIETY THEATRE.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY DRAMATIC SOCIETY

That people are always eager to know "What Happened to Jones?" was evidenced by the extraordinarily enthusiastic reception given that favourite play when it was presented last night by the Dublin University Dramatic Society. The performance, which will be repeated on Wednesday and Friday, and at a matinee on Saturday, merited all the applause of the audience, and all its laughter, which is the best applause for such a play. Mr. E. Davidson fulfilled every line of the rôle of the embarrassed professor, and Mrs. Sparkes as Mrs. Goodly (the wife) gave one of the finest interpretations of the female characters. As Cissy Miss Lorna Thompson was most winning in all her work, and shared with Mrs. Sparkes some of the triumph of the evening. The rôle of the ward demands for its success much spirit and charm, and these were amply represented. Miss Marion Disney ("Marjorie"), Miss Mary Meade (Minerva), and Miss Gladys Weatherill (Alvina Starlight) also played exceedingly well. The star part of "Jones" was admirably cast. Mr. Kenneth James filled it with complete success, and it was because of his humour-provoking interpretation of the salesman-become-bishop, as much as the endless occurrence of farcical situations that the audience laughed so much as to warrant pauses in the dialogue. At the beginning Mr. G. Gamble "rushed" his talk as Richard Heatherly, and his lines were almost inaudible, but this haste he overcame soon, and played very satisfactorily. Mr. J. Bird was not quite at ease as the "cop." A fine example of the Indian lunatic was given by Mr. S. W. Russell, and Mr. G. Fletcher asserted himself in his limited scope as asylum superintendent. Mr. W. Johnson made things uproariously funny as the bishop, whom none would believe, and Miss Molly Hardy showed how necessary a household adjunct a Swedish maid may be.

This evening and on Thursday and Saturday evenings "The New Boy," Arthur Law's farcical comedy, will be performed.

THEATRE ROYAL.

There was plenty of laughter last evening at the Theatre Royal during several of the "turns" which constitute a first rate programme of variety entertainment. A highly interesting sketch entitled "Partners" is being presented by Harry Green, whose work is not unknown to Dublin theatre-goers. In this Irving Gear and Joe Milton are running a ladies' outfitting business in New York. One of the partners is keen and energetic, the other is almost the exact opposite of him in character. The business is not flourishing, and Louis Rosenbaum (Joe Milton) is impelled to go out and canvass for customers. A young lady, who is supposed to be a wholesale buyer from Chicago, enters the warcroom, and, almost dumbfounded by their eloquent methods, she is booked for a very big order. In gratitude for her patronage they present her with a dress, and then it turns out that she had come to look for employment as a model. The piece is smartly written and capitally acted. It was received with every mark of favour by the large audience. The "Mellow Decs," a male quartette, gave a very acceptable selection of operatic and light comedy ballads. The Two Gealks gave vocal imitations of birds and beasts, and one of the artists was genuinely comic. G. S. Melvin sang a few amusing comic songs in a style that appealed to his hearers, and his dancing was light and graceful. Van Dock, an Italian cartoonist, and Flora and Bijou, comedy girls, supplied interesting "business."

FRENCH LOAN IN AMERICA.

A New York telegram, dated Sunday, states:—Messrs. Morgan and Company announce that France has arranged a public issue of one hundred million dollar bonds, underwritten by a syndicate. The proceeds are to be used to redeem obligations maturing during the current year, and to purchase necessary foodstuffs, materials, etc. Messrs. Morgan also announce that France has authorised the issue of one hundred million dollar 7 per cent. external bonds, maturing in twenty years, the bonds not being subject to redemption prior to maturity. France agrees to pay, as a sinking fund, nine hundred million dollars annually, beginning January 1st next, this sum to be used for purchasing the bonds on the market at a price not exceeding par and accrued interest.

TOWN TENANTS AND PROTECTIVE LEGISLATION.

MEETING OF TOWN TENANTS' LEAGUE.

Mr. Arthur Hughes, and subsequently Mr. Edward Hart, sen., presided at a joint meeting of the Executive and Central Branch of the All-Ireland Town Tenants' League at 43 Rutland square, Dublin. Thirty-two cases were enquired into, and action decided on for the protection of the tenants.

Mr. James A. Meagher, LL.B., solicitor, attended in reference to several cases in which he has been instructed by the Town Tenants' League to defend proceedings taken against tenants. These include cases where the owners have not complied with the provisions of the Rents Act regarding the standard rent. A most satisfactory report was read from the Coalisland Branch, Co. Tyrone. All classes in the district have joined the branch, and the tenants are determined to take united action to resist any attempt to increase rents. Substantial progress was reported from Ballinasloe. Close on two hundred of the tenants have now joined the Town Tenants' League, and it was decided to take Mr. Coghlan Briscoe's advice not to purchase until such times as the houses and lands could be secured on terms fair to all parties.

Mr. Coghlan Briscoe submitted over a hundred communications received during the past week regarding the Extension of the Rents Act. Several merchants wrote that the matter was of great importance, and that with things as they were in Ireland tenants would be unable to meet increased demands for rent. Several subscriptions were acknowledged to the fund opened.

Mr. William Field, who wrote regretting his absence, enclosed a letter received by him from the Prime Minister. It was remarked that Mr. Lloyd George appeared apathetic towards town tenants, as his letter contained no promise that the Government would assist. A report was read detailing the steps taken by business men in the various English centres to urge on Parliament to extend the Rents Act, and it was evident that, following the agitation in Ireland, English town tenants were beginning to realise the importance of securing protective legislation.

Mr. Hughes said that the Extension of the Rents Act was of immense importance to men engaged in business. The Executive was doing everything possible to bring the matter forward, but business men would have to realise that money was essential if this work was to be done successfully. Only a few weeks now remained, and he hoped that the business men in Dublin and throughout the country would at once send on their subscriptions to the Town Tenants' League.

BOY FOUND DROWNED.—The body of a boy named Henry Murray, aged 16 years, of Orwell Cottages, Orwell road, Rathgar, who had been missing since the previous evening, was found yesterday morning in a quarry pond at the rear of Rathgar road. It is thought that he climbed a tree which overhangs the water in order to look for a bird's nest, and that he missed his footing and fell into the quarry.

WOMAN KILLED BY MOTOR.—In the South Dublin Police Court yesterday, Francis McDonnell, 58 Lower Baggot street, was charged with the manslaughter of an elderly woman (unidentified), who was knocked down by a motor car driven by defendant on Sunday night in Phibsborough road. From the evidence of a motorman in the employment of the Dublin United Tramways Company, it appeared that on Sunday a number of people were boarding a stationary tram at Doyle's Corner when the motor car came along and passed out to the right in order to pass the tram. The woman was seen to step off the pavement to cross the road, but when she saw the tram she drew back, and was knocked down by the motor, which was going slowly. Other evidence having been given, Mr. Cooper, K.C., remanded the defendant on bail until Friday. The woman was later identified as Mrs. Walsh, St. Arnaud's, Merrion road, Dublin.

What Causes Skin Disorders?

Impurity within—Infection without. World-wide Success of Germolene.

FREE OFFER TO THE PUBLIC.

Skin disorders are caused either by impurity in the blood or by external infection. To get rid of them both causes must be eliminated and this is what the Germolene treatment does. If you suffer from any skin ailment such as rashes, eczema, pimples, piles, bad legs, or ulcers, or if your child has ringworm or impetigo, or other infantile complaint, Germolene must cure it because it is aseptic—i.e., it kills germs, and excludes germs. It is also very soothing in the case of wounds, burns, and scalds.

Write for an entirely free sample tin to the Veno Drug Co., Ltd., Manufacturing Chemists, Manchester. This will be immediately sent you post free, along with an interesting book on skin diseases. Germolene costs 1s. 3d. and 3s. at chemists.

Under the Order every person intending to ship a horse, ass, or mule direct from Ireland to any place outside the British Islands is required to give the Department, or (in the case of shipment from certain specified Irish ports) the Department Portal Officers, at least four hours' notice of his intention, together with certain particulars respecting the proposed shipment.

FITTINGS, ETC., OF VESSELS.
In regard to vessels carrying horses, asses, or mules direct from Ireland to foreign countries, the Order formulates requirements as to the accommodation to be provided for the animals, the arrangements for their rest and exercise during the voyage, the ventilation of compartments in which they are carried below deck, the arrangements for their loading and for the supply of food and water to them, and the number of qualified attendants to be carried for the purpose of feeding, watering, and exercising them, and cleaning and disinfecting their stalls.

OFFENCES.
In case of failure to notify intended shipment, or in case of carriage of an animal on a vessel which does not conform to the requirements of the Order, the owner of the animal and the owner, charterer, and master of the vessel are each liable to proceedings for an offence against the Diseases of Animals Act, 1894.

Copies of the Order may be obtained post free on application to the Secretary, Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland Veterinary Branch), 50-51 Upper Mount street, Dublin.

In London yesterday the Stock Markets were awaiting developments in the labour situation. Conditions in the money market were much harder, the loan rate being up to 6 per cent. Dublin Market was busy, a sharp rise in Guinness Shares being the feature.—(P. 7.)

CHAMBER OF TRADE.

BRITISH GOODS AND ITALY.

Earl Beauchamp, welcoming 300 delegates to the National Chamber of Trade, Cheltenham, yesterday, expressed dismay at finding, on a recent visit to Italy, that so little was being sold there of the British goods. Instead, the Italians were largely selling German goods—not altogether surprising in view of the exchange. He was told that a number of British manufacturers had agreed to create a fictitious rate of exchange, so that the actual rate of exchange should quickly become normal and the flow of goods resume its natural course.

IRISH SECONDARY TEACHERS AND THE BOARD OF INTERMEDIATE EDUCATION.

At a meeting of the Association of Assistant Masters in Secondary Schools, held in Dublin on the 21st inst., the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:—(1) "That we demand the appointment of secondary teachers' representatives on the Board of Intermediate Education in Ireland, as similar appointments of primary teachers have been made to the Board of National Education (Ireland)." (2) "That the Intermediate Education Board be asked to publish in the Press an account of each meeting of the Board; such account to include names of Commissioners present, as well as business transacted. Further, that in the annual publication of the Board the attendances of each Commissioner for the year be set forth."

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—The anti-cyclone, which extends from the Azores to Scandinavia, will maintain fair to fine weather over the British Isles for the next day or two, but showers may occur in the far north. In the South the North-Westerly wind will blow strongly at times.

Ireland—Wind from between South-West and South-East, light to moderate; fine; visibility good, apart from slight morning mist; moderate temperature.

Trouble in Egypt.

When Parliament reassembles to-day it must take account of the serious situation which has arisen in Egypt. In these times of universal excursions and alarums crises are things of every-day occurrence. A revolution of sorts is in progress in Portugal, but nobody gives it a second thought. War has flared up again in Upper Silesia; yet the news that the Germans are in action against Korfanty's freebooters leaves the strife-surfeited citizen comparatively cold. Egypt, however, is quite another matter. In a sense it is the pivot on which the British Empire revolves, and the grave outburst of rioting which has taken place in Cairo and Alexandria demands the earnest attention not only of Parliament, but of the nation at large. The trouble began on Friday. After the usual prayer in the mosques of Alexandria several thousands of hooligans launched an attack upon the local police. They rushed to the principal police station, and in the course of their journey stoned a British military policeman to death. Having tasted blood, the mob was roused to frenzy. It was checked by the Egyptian police, who were forbidden to use their rifles; but the demeanour of the crowd became so menacing that, after twenty-four of their number had been injured, they were forced to fire. Eight rioters were killed and many were wounded; but the mob gathered again and a series of pogroms was organised. The Greeks were the first to be marked down for attack on the pretext that one of them had killed a native.

During the rioting five Europeans were murdered and seventy-two were injured. Then the Government decided to intervene, and after some people had been burned alive by the mob British troops were rushed to Alexandria. They occupied the town without much trouble and a semblance of order has been restored already. The rioters evidently have no stomach for a fight with the military, but some of the Europeans seem to have taken the law into their own hands and are firing on Egyptians from their houses. The British Commander-in-Chief has threatened to use machine guns against these houses unless "sniping" stops, and it is to be hoped that his firm attitude will have a salutary effect on all concerned. Fortunately, with the exception of the military policeman, no British lives have been lost, and the presence of Lord Allenby at the head of affairs is a guarantee that the situation is well in hand. Nevertheless, the whole business is very disquieting. The massacre of Europeans suggests that the disturbances are not solely "political" in their origin, but, like the Boxer rising in China, are a symptom of reviving fanaticism. A wave of pan-Islamism is sweeping from India across the Middle East. Passions engendered by the Caliphate question have been turned with great skill by Bolshevist and other agitators into anti-European, and, finally, anti-British channels, and the Empire is paying dearly for the delay in the conclusion of the Sèvres Treaty. So long as Egypt is unsettled there can be no real peace in Palestine, Syria, Mesopotamia, Persia, or India. To put an end, therefore, to these periodic outbreaks of rebellion and to strengthen British prestige in Egypt should be one of the very first aims of Imperial policy.

The political problem is difficult, but it is not insoluble. The report of the Milner Commission outlined a scheme which was approved generally by the educated classes. When Adly Pasha's Cabinet took office some months ago everything pointed to an early settlement. The British Government was ready to discuss Egypt's future with an official committee, and the Egyptian Government seemed to be anxious to come to friendly terms. Then Zaghlul Pasha came upon the scene. He began by repudiating Adly Pasha's Government altogether and announced that he, and he alone, was entitled to represent the country's wishes. Violent in the extreme, he appealed to the quick temper of the Cairene students, and, naturally enough, the mob followed him like a flock of sheep. He refused to listen to the suggestion that Egypt should remain within the British Empire and rallied his supporters to the standard of a free and independent Republic. His campaign met with considerable success. Adly Pasha found himself virtually without popular support, and his rival was able to frustrate all his attempts to translate the recommendations of the Milner Commission into an Egyptian Constitution. Matters had reached a deadlock when the present disturbances began. Now the Government's task is more formidable than ever. Yet it must be faced. To play fast and loose with Egypt is to court disaster and the need for a statesmanlike settlement is urgent. Britain cannot afford to take any risks with the Suez Canal. That is the real point at issue. If Zaghlul Pasha or anybody else imagines that a British Government—even a Labour Government—can be intimidated into conceding it, he is very much at fault. Subject to the retention of the Canal in British hands, however, the nation would welcome almost any formula which would keep Egypt quiet.

The Miners' Strike.

It is reported that the coal peace conference may be held to-morrow. During the last ten days a series of "conversations" has taken place between the emissaries of the Government and the miners' leaders in various parts of the country with the object of finding an agreed basis of negotiations, and it is believed that the most serious obstacle has been surmounted. A careful study of recent public utterances in the coal fields supports this view. The demand for a national pool has been ignored, and all the speakers have declared that they stand for a wage settlement which will have regard to the cost of living compared with 1914. It may be assumed, therefore, that the leading members of the Miners' Federation are prepared to advise their followers that the claim for a national pool shall not be pressed. A strong hint to this effect seems to have been sent to the Mining Association. There is evidence of this in its latest statement. "The owners are fully prepared," it says, "to resume discussions on the terms on which work shall be resumed once the proposal for a national pool is out of the way." We may regard the Association's statement as an intimation that the owners are willing to meet any reasonable claim that the men may make. The only serious danger now is that the miners may press for terms that are economically impossible. If they demand wages that make a too liberal allowance for the increase in the cost of living, they will be demanding something that cannot be granted without placing many of their members on the permanent list of the unemployed. The majority of the coal mines are on the verge of bankruptcy, and until the export trade is wrested from our competitors and the industry's prosperity is restored there can be no hope of their paying a relatively higher wage than in 1914. The miners, therefore, must be moderate. It is well to remember that the whole question of wages was discussed at a series of conferences held before the strike began and that both owners and the miners accepted certain principles. It was agreed that there should be a wages board and that within certain limits wages should fluctuate in sympathy with profits. The Government's decision to withdraw the subsidy at the end of March instead of in August interrupted the negotiations at a critical point and pushed the question of a national pool to the front. A national wages scale is still attainable and the machinery to administer it could be devised easily. It is to be hoped earnestly that when the new conference is summoned it will not be dissolved before all the points of difference have disappeared and the framework of a permanent settlement has been built. The country is yearning for peace, but both the owners and the miners must understand that it will not support a patch-work peace. This strike, now in its eighth week, has cost so much that the thought that it may be succeeded by another six months or a year hence is unbearable.

Pioneers.

Yesterday Trinity College, Dublin, elected a new Fellow and its annual batch of Scholars. The event is an encouraging reminder that, in spite of all the distresses and horror of the time, the College maintains serenely its work of teaching and character-building. Here, as in the other Irish universities, the best of our young men and women are being fitted for their country's service. They will enter soon into a world which has been changed vastly by the great war, and they will be required to play their part—a momentous part—in the making of a new Ireland. Some settlement of Irish affairs is inevitable in the near future. The men and women who will influence its fortunes during the first years of reconstruction will have tremendous responsibilities; for they will put an enduring stamp on the national destinies. They will be pioneers in a measure which was denied to their fathers and grandfathers—and they will be what our universities make them. The importance of quality and character in the formative years of a people's life appears very strikingly in the address which the Reverend Dr. Murray delivered yesterday at the Festival Service in the College Chapel. For this reason, apart from its historical and local interest, his choice of subject was most happy. The majority of Irishmen will be surprised to learn how intimate was the association between Trinity College and the American Colonists in the seventeenth century. Samuel Mather came from Harvard to be a Senior Fellow of Trinity. His brother Increase went back from Trinity to be President of Harvard. John Winthrop, a graduate of Trinity, became the first Governor of Connecticut. Thus Ireland's association with America—one of the most important factors in present politics—is far older than the popular histories suppose. These early sons of Trinity College were typical founders of American society—Puritans, with all the narrowness of their creed and all the prejudices and ignorances of their time, but men of high purpose and steady outlook, true lovers both of liberty and of order. It is well that Dublin University should recall such chapters from her past in circumstances which are an imperative challenge to her endowments of faith, courage, and public service.

The Royal Dublin Society.

Rational Irishmen of all parties will deplore the letter which the Chairman of the Dublin Corporation's Markets Committee has sent to the Press. Mr. Paul refuses to be satisfied with the sweeping reforms that the Royal Dublin Society has adopted in order to relieve itself—as Mr. Wrench said at the recent meeting—of "the taint of politics." A new by-law adds the Lord Mayors of Dublin, Belfast, and Cork to the Society's Council. Mr. Paul demands the exclusion of the Lord Mayor of Belfast on the ground that he is associated with the policy of partition. In other words, Mr. Paul wants to reintroduce the "taint of politics" into the Society. He desires it to repeat in principle the offence of which it purged itself by cancelling Count Plunkett's expulsion. Furthermore, he seems to take the hopeless view that all future Lord Mayors of Belfast will be advocates of partition. Fortunately, the vast majority of Sinn Feiners has a better sense of logic and a larger faith in the ultimate unity of Ireland. The Royal Dublin Society has made a bold and generous effort to rally all classes and parties of Irishmen to the support of its programme of agricultural and industrial progress. We are confident that the whole country welcomes that effort in the same spirit in which it has been made.

ST. JOHN AMBULANCE BRIGADE.

IRISH DISTRICT.

The competition for the Women's Individual Challenge Cup, St. John Ambulance Brigade (Irish District), presented by Lady Arnott, D.B.E., J.P., was held on Saturday last at Brigade Headquarters, 40 Merrion square, Dublin.

There were 22 competitors, the winner being Lady Ambulance Officer Mrs. Gladys Rowlette, St. Stephen's Green Nursing Division.

Dr. C. Burnett Scott, Miss Patterson (Adelaide Hospital), with Lady District Officers Miss Muriel Poë, M.B.E., and Miss Overend acted as judges. The officers in charge of the competition were:—Lady District Officer Miss E. F. Blandford, Lady Corps Superintendents Mrs. Shanks, Mrs. W. H. Robinson, and Mrs. R. H. Keatinge.

REAR ADMIRAL SIMS'S VISIT.

Rear-Admiral Sims, who arrived at Liverpool yesterday morning, declared that Anglo-American relations were as ever. It was the idea of the people over there that unless the English-speaking people stood together in whatever was necessary for the civilisation of the world, it would not go forward.

Admiral Sims, after inspecting the guard of honour from H.M.S. Valiant, and visiting the battleship, left for London.

The Rear-Admiral arrived in London yesterday afternoon. During his stay in England he will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Cambridge University, and he will visit Admiral Bayley in Devonshire.

MR. ILLINGWORTH'S NEW TITLE.

Mr. Illingworth, who has been raised to the Peerage, is taking the title of Baron Illingworth, of Denton.

STILLMAN DIVORCE CASE.

All the New York newspapers state that Mr. J. Stillman, the millionaire bank president, has agreed to stop the action for divorce against his wife. They state that the settlement involves the recognition by Stillman of the legitimacy of his infant son, Guy, whom he alleged to be the illegitimate son of the Canadian half-breed Indian, Mr. Fred. Beauvais, and the settlement on Mrs. Stillman of ninety thousand dollars annually.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

58 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

The Prime Minister's week-end is still shrouded in mystery, and it is uncertain whether he will be returning to London to-night. It was stated this morning that no invitation would be issued to-day to the mine-owners and miners' leaders for a conference on Wednesday. Thus it seems that the week-end has resulted in nothing of a definite character. Nevertheless, hopes are still strong that a solution of the trouble may be found during the present week. It is noteworthy that Mr. Frank Hodges declares that he has not been to Chequers, though he was away from London yesterday.

A feature of the coal situation this morning was the marked moderation of the miners' demands. There seemed to be no talk of a national pool outside London, while suggestions are made that all that was wanted was a favourable settlement of the wages question. Mr. G. A. Spencer, the Notts leader of the miners, said last night that a wage commensurate with the cost of living was all that the men required.

Later in the day, however, it became known that there was an indication of a revival of the national pool demand in the absence of any alternative. This may delay the meeting of a conference, and, in fact, throw the negotiations out of stride altogether. It may be that a way out may have been found during the recent meetings, or is on the verge of discovery; but, if not, the outlook is not bright. It is known that the Government wants an assurance that the pool idea has been given up before it helps to bring the parties together again.

Last week we were threatened with a tram strike on the London County Council system, to begin to-day. A ballot was being taken, and the extremists were ready to warn us that the tramway workers were in full sympathy with the workers and those who refused to keep the power stations going with imported coal. To-day there is not a whisper of a strike, and it was announced at the headquarters of the United Vehicle Workers' Union that the figures of the voting were not ready yet. It is known, however, that the votes were counted on Saturday and that there is an overwhelming majority against a stoppage of the tramways. The strike movement is unpopular with the rank and file of the union.

The Government still adheres to its intention to do without an autumn session, and, unless prevented by the unforeseen, it is probable that it will be successful. There is, however, an abundance of work to be done quickly if the House is to adjourn by the middle of August. Finance will take up a great deal of time during the next two months, while the Railways Bill will occupy many sittings, for it is certain to be warmly debated. The Safeguarding of Industries Bill stands in rather a doubtful position, and it is quite possible that the Government may decide to drop it. Private members' opportunities are very few now, for there are only two more days during the remainder of the session for their business.

Sir Hamar Greenwood arrived in London yesterday from Dublin, and he is expected to be on this side for some little time.

It is anticipated that Sir Edward Carson's acceptance of his appointment as a Lord Justice of Appeal will be made known during this week, probably after the result of the Ulster elections. Sir Edward, who will fill the post rendered vacant by the death of Lord Moulton, will take up his duties immediately after his acceptance.

Mr. J. R. Lonsdale, M.P. for Mid-Armagh, who succeeded his brother, Lord Armaghdale, in the constituency when he was made a Peer, passed away very suddenly, indeed. He had appeared to be in quite good health, and consequently his death was a very great shock to his friends. Retiring last night at the usual hour, he had a heart seizure, and, though doctors were summoned at once, nothing could be done, and he died shortly after four o'clock this morning. Mr. Lonsdale's death creates a vacancy in Mid-Armagh, but this constituency exists only until the General Election, when, with North Down, Duncairn, and South Derry, it will disappear. In the circumstances it will not be easy to find a candidate.

Admiral Sims, who was so popular on this side during the war, arrived in London to-day. The Admiral had the unique compliment for a private individual of being escorted on the Cedric during the last forty-five miles of the voyage from New York by two British destroyers, while a naval guard of honour awaited him on landing. These attentions are unusual, since the Admiral has not come over in his official capacity, but to receive a degree as Doctor of Law at Cambridge. An interesting programme has been arranged for his visit. On Thursday he is to lunch with the Pilgrims' Club, and on Saturday he is going to Hurlingham for the polo and to Olympia for the tournament. On Monday he pays a visit to H.M.S. Queen Elizabeth, and after that follows a series of public dinners, ending by one at Queenstown before he sails on June 11th.

The Flower Show of the Royal Horticultural Society, to be opened at Chelsea Hospital to-morrow, is a very fine display. Lord Lambourne presided over a private view held this afternoon, when it was announced that there are three hundred and fifty exhibits—two hundred floral, one hundred shrubbery, and fifty miscellaneous. Some very beautiful rock gardens are exhibited, contrived in many quaint shapes and devices. A revival of herb culture is shown by two ladies in a garden produced by their labours. A striking feature of the Show is the orchid group, shown in a tent with other exhibits, the tent being 380 feet long by 94 feet wide. There are two other tents about the same size. The usual display of tulips seemed to be missing to-day, but, perhaps, they were not on view owing to the heat.

The day is fast approaching when wireless telephones will replace those of the present day, for Mr. William Dubilier, who has made important discoveries in wireless telephony, has arrived in London to have a conference with Sir Frederick Sykes, Director of Civil Aviation, regarding the possibility of fitting wireless telephones to aeroplanes. Mr. Dubilier says that during his voyage on the Mauretania he made tests which convinced him that soon every Atlantic liner will have its wireless telephone outfit. The tests have proved that it is merely a matter of equipment. Within two years the inventor thinks that all main state rooms on big ships will be equipped with regular desk telephones and that the passenger will be able to communicate with London or New York with ease.

The public will be able to obtain admission to some interesting polo matches at Hurlingham Club on Wednesday and Saturday and on June 4th. Two matches will be played between England and "The Rest" and one between the American team and Hurlingham. This is a new departure, and admission can only be gained by ticket, which must be procured beforehand.

ST. GEORGE'S DIVISION ELECTION.

Colonel Sir Herbert Jessel was yesterday adopted as Conservative Coalition candidate for the by-election in the St. George's Division of Westminster, caused by the elevation to the Peerage of Mr. Walter Long.

A Havana telegram, dated May 5th (delayed), states:—After performing feats of strength in the National Theatre here, when he twisted iron bars and supported upon his shoulders a steel rail, to which eighteen persons were hanging by their hands, without apparent ill-effects, Theodore Luttof, the Cossack Hercules, dropped dead soon after emerging from a shower bath.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY.

TRINITY MONDAY ELECTIONS.

NEW FELLOW AND SCHOLARS.

The Board of Trinity College, Dublin, met yesterday for the purpose of electing a Fellow, Foundation and Non-Foundation Scholars.

Shortly before noon the Provost appeared on the steps of the Examination Hall, and announced the results as follows:—

FELLOW.
Fearon, William Robert.

SCHOLARS.
Mathematics.—Gillespie, Irene; Williams, Ernest Hillas; Willis, Sandham John.
Classics.—Ferguson, John Roulette Stanley; Hornsby, Hazel Marie; Shapira, Nathan; Bayne, Alexander Wallace; Baxter, William Smyth.
Modern Languages.—Reid, Thomas Bertram Wallace; Johnston, Eliza Brown Watt; Spielman, Ivy Valerie.
Experimental Science.—Fitzgibbon, Gerald; Dixon, Patrick Kerr; Smyllie, Alexander Walker Grahame; Cockle, Kenneth Bernard; Brooks, Lilian May.
Natural Science.—Clark, Arthur Edward.
History and Political Science.—Wilson, Mark; Longfield, Ada Kathleen; Johnston, Thomas James; Moore, Frank.
Philosophy.—Leahy, Kathleen Elizabeth; Lavelle, Alexander Bannerman; Martin, Leslie Wallace.

THE NEW FELLOW.
William Robert Fearon entered Trinity College in October, 1911, and immediately joined the Medical School, where he was awarded the Purser Medal for Physiology, First Medical Scholarship (Chemistry and Physics) and First Medical Scholarship (Anatomy and Physiology). In 1915 he graduated with a Large Gold Medal in Natural Science. In 1917 he gained a Foundation Scholarship in Experimental Science. In 1919 the degrees of M.A. and Sc.D. were conferred on him stip. cond. By research in chemistry the following prizes were awarded him:—The Harvey Prize of the Royal College of Physicians in Ireland, the Fellowship of the Institute of Chemistry in London, First Research Science Exhibition in Emmanuel College, Cambridge, and the Mackinnon Research Studentship of the Royal Society of London. Among his miscellaneous distinctions may be included the Vice-Chancellor's Prize for English Verse, first Medals for Composition, University Philosophical Society and University Biological Association. The following are among his publications:—"Journal of Biological Chemistry" (two papers), "Dublin Medical Journal" (four papers), "Journal of the Chemical Society" (one paper, conjointly), "Journal of the Department of Technical Instruction for Ireland" (one paper), "Results of War Research Published in the Official Reports of the Various Departments."

The external examiners who assisted the Court in the work of reporting on the theses for Fellowship were Professor Bayliss, of London; Professor Townsend, of Oxford; and Professor Milroy, of Belfast.

THE SCHOLARSHIPS.

MATHEMATICS.

Gillespie, Irene, who gets first place (non-Foundation) at the Scholarship Examination in Mathematics, was educated at Bertrand School, Dublin, and entered Trinity College in Michaelmas Term, 1918. Taking up mathematics as her primary subject, she has since obtained many first class honours in the same, also first of first class honours in Experimental Science. At the Final Freshman Examination in Trinity, 1920, she was bracketed equal for first place, and gained a Senior Exhibition.

Williams, Ernest Hillas, was educated at Mountjoy School, Dublin, and entered Trinity College in October, 1918, with a Junior and School Exhibition and Mathematical Sizarship. His subsequent distinctions include numerous first of first class honours in Mathematics, first class honours in Experimental Science and Mental and Moral Philosophy, a Senior Exhibition, and the Townsend Memorial Prize. He now gets second Mathematical Scholarship.

Willis, Sandham John, who gets third Mathematical Scholarship, entered Trinity College in Michaelmas Term, 1917, from Mountjoy School, Dublin, with a Mathematical Sizarship. Since then, first class honours in Mathematics and Mental and Moral Philosophy have fallen to his lot, and at the Final Freshman Examination he was placed in the first class.

CLASSICS.

Ferguson, John Roulette Stanley, was educated at Portora Royal School, Enniskillen, and entered Trinity College in Trinity Term, 1919, with a Classical Sizarship and Entrance Prizes in Greek Prose Composition and English History and Modern Geography. Among his other distinctions may be mentioned first class honours in Classics, Mental and Moral Philosophy and a Classical Term Composition Prize. As a Senior Freshman he now gets first Classical Scholarship.

Hornsby, Hazel Marie, who gets second Classical Scholarship (non-Foundation), was educated at Alexandra College, Dublin, and matriculated in Trinity College with first place at the Examination for Junior and School Exhibitions in Michaelmas, 1919, and Entrance Prizes in Latin Prose Composition and German. Making Classics her primary subject, she has since obtained first of first class honours and Classical Term Composition Prizes, also a Prize in Ancient History and Classical Archæology.

Shapira, Nathan, was educated at the High School, Dublin, and entered Trinity College with a Classical Sizarship and a Junior and School Exhibition in 1919, and Entrance Prizes in Greek Prose Composition and Latin Verse Composition. His further distinctions include first class honours in Classics and the Marshall Porter Prize, and this term third Classical Scholarship.

Bayne, Alexander Wallace, the fourth Classical Scholar of this year, entered Trinity in 1919, with a Classical Sizarship and a Junior and School Exhibition, having been educated at Portora Royal School, Enniskillen. Since then he has obtained honours in Classics.

Baxter, William Smyth, who gets the fifth Classical Scholarship, was educated at Foyle College, Londonderry, and entered Trinity College last year with first Classical Sizarship and third Junior and School Exhibition, also Entrance Prizes in Greek Prose Composition, Greek Verse Composition, Latin Prose Composition, Latin Verse Composition, and English Literature and Composition.

MODERN LANGUAGES.

Reid, Thomas Bertram Wallace, was educated at the Royal School, Armagh, and entered Trinity College in October, 1919, with a Junior and School Exhibition. During a distinguished career, he has obtained first class honours in French and German, including a first of first in each, first class honours in Mental and Moral Philosophy, and a German Term Composition Prize. While still a Freshman, he now becomes first Scholar in Modern Languages of this year.

Johnston, Eliza Brown Watt, who gets second Scholarship (non-Foundation) in Modern Languages, was educated at Victoria High School, Londonderry, and entered Trinity College with a Sizarship in Modern Languages. Her further distinctions include first class honours in French (including a first of first), first class honours in German and a Senior Exhibition.

Spielman, Ivy Valerie, the third Scholar (non-Foundation) in Modern Languages of this year, came to Trinity College from Alexandra College, Dublin, in October, 1917. She began her College career with an Entrance Prize in French, and has since gained many first class honours in French and German, with Term Composition Prizes in the same, and a special Prize in Old and Middle English.

EXPERIMENTAL SCIENCE.

Fitzgibbon, Gerald, the first Experimental Science Scholar of this year, was educated at Cheltenham College, and entered Trinity College in October, 1919, with a Junior and School Exhibition and an Entrance Prize in Experimental Science. During his college career as a Freshman, he has obtained first class honours in Experimental Science, including a first of first, first class honours in Mathematics and honours in German.

Dixon, Patrick Kerr, was educated at St. Andrew's College, Dublin, and entered Trinity College with a Junior and School Exhibition in Michaelmas Term, 1916. His further distinctions include first class honours in Mathematics and also in Experimental Science. He now gets second place in Experimental Science at the Scholarship Examination in his Junior Sophister Year.

Smyllie, Alexander Walker Grahame, who becomes third Experimental Science Scholar of this year, was educated at Sligo Grammar School and Mountjoy School, Dublin, and entered Trinity College in 1919, with first Experimental Science Sizarship, a Junior and School Exhibition, and Entrance Prizes in Experimental Science and English Literature and Composition. Since entering College, he has gained first class honours in Experimental Science and a first of first class honour in English Literature.

Cockle, Kenneth Bernard, was educated at Sligo Grammar School and Mountjoy School, Dublin, and matriculated in Trinity College with an Experimental Science Sizarship in Trinity Term, 1919. He has since obtained a first of first class honour in Experimental Science and honours in Mathematics, and now gets fourth place at the Scholarship Examination in Experimental Science while still a Freshman.

Brooks, Lilian May, was educated at Alexandra College, Dublin, and entered Trinity College in Michaelmas Term, 1918, with third place at the Junior and School Exhibition Examination and Entrance Prizes in English Literature and Composition and Scripture. Among her further distinctions are included several first class honours in Mathematics, first class honours in Experimental Science and Mental and Moral Philosophy and a Senior Exhibition. She was also bracketed equal for first place at Final Freshman Examination in Trinity, 1920. She now gets fifth Experimental Science Scholarship (non-Foundation).

NATURAL SCIENCE.

Clark, Arthur Edward, who gets first Scholarship in Natural Science, was educated at the Galway Grammar School, and entered Trinity in Michaelmas Term, 1918, with an Experimental Science Sizarship. He has since obtained first of first class honours in Natural Science and honours in Experimental Science.

HISTORY AND POLITICAL SCIENCE.

Wilson, Mark, was educated at Mountjoy School, Dublin, and entered Trinity College in January, 1918. Taking History as his primary subject, he has since obtained several first class honours (including a first of first), and now distinguishes himself by becoming the first Scholar in History and Political Science of the year.

Longfield, Ada Kathleen, who now becomes the second Scholar in History and Political Science (non-foundation), was educated at the High School, Cork, and entered Trinity College in October, 1917, with an Entrance Prize in English History and Modern Geography. The following distinctions have fallen to her lot:—First of first class honours in History, honours in English Literature, the Dunbar Ingram Prize, and the Cluff Memorial Prize.

Johnston, Thomas James, was educated at Tipperary Grammar School, and entered Trinity College in Michaelmas Term, 1919, where he has since obtained a first of first class honour in History. As a Freshman he now becomes the third Scholar in History and Political Science.

Moore, Frank, who now gets fourth Scholarship in History and Political Science, was educated at Kilkenny College, and came to Trinity College in Michaelmas Term, 1919. His subsequent distinctions include first class honours in History and Modern Literature.

PHILOSOPHY.

Leahy, Kathleen Elizabeth, who gets the first Scholarship (non-Foundation) awarded in Philosophy, was educated at Alexandra College, Dublin, and matriculated in Trinity College with a high place at the April Entrance, 1919. During a brilliant career she has gained first of first class honours in Mental and Moral Philosophy and English Literature, also first class honours in French, a Term Composition Prize in English, second place at the examination for Senior Exhibition, and first class at the Little Go Examination of her year.

Lavelle, Alexander Bannerman, entered Trinity College, Dublin, from Queen's University, Belfast. Making Mental and Moral Philosophy his primary subject, he has since obtained first of first class honours on more than one occasion, and now distinguishes himself by becoming the second Scholar in Philosophy of the year.

Martin, Leslie Wallace, who now becomes the third Scholar in Philosophy, was educated at the Royal School, Armagh, and entered Trinity College in June, 1918. He has since obtained first class honours in Mental and Moral Philosophy.

STUDENTS' REVELS.

The students, as usual on these annual occasions, were prepared to celebrate the day in their own way after the announcement had been made. A certain number of them arrayed themselves in various costumes designed to represent, in burlesque, the College staff giving a reception to the Crown Prince of Japan, who was supposed to have come to see the University. The mock procession, the comic mace, and the feeble blare of toy trumpets, the conferring of degrees, the speech of the supposed Mr. Lloyd George, were all most amusing. The revellers commandeered a couple of cart horses that were working in the grounds and with these and a motor car they made a great deal of merriment.

The customary Old Scholars' dinner was held in the Hall in the evening.

THE FESTIVAL SERVICE.

TRINITY COLLEGE AND THE AMERICAN COLONIES.

THE REV. ROBERT H. MURRAY'S ADDRESS.

The Rev. Robert H. Murray, Litt.D., addressed the congregation at the Trinity Monday Festival Service in the College Chapel yesterday evening on "The Connection between Trinity College, Dublin, and the American Colonies during the Seventeenth Century." He said that, like many another adventurer, when Columbus discovered America he builded greater than he knew, for till the day of his death he was unconscious of the magnitude of his achievement in 1492. He thought that he had turned the flank of the Turk, for he had found a new route which they could not block. As a matter of fact, to use the fine saying of George Canning, he had called into existence a new world in order to redress the balance of the old. Shakespeare wrote that England was "the utmost corner of the west." He was wrong, quite wrong; for the discovery of America by Columbus completely altered her position in Europe. Formerly she had been at the edge of affairs; now she was in the very heart of them. The position of Ireland was also fundamentally changed. Before 1492 she acted as a breakwater between England and the ocean, but now, for the first time, she lay athwart English trade between the New World and the Old. He who controls her harbours controls English commerce. From this point of view, the discovery of America was fatal to the aspirations of the Irish. The control of Ireland was vital to England, and sixteenth century statesmen soon perceived that this control must be effective; hence the confiscations and plantations which now begin to mark the history of Ireland. Our beautiful form of bidding prayer exhorts us to petition that "there never may be wanting a supply of persons duly qualified to serve both in Church and State, ye shall pray for a blessing on all places of religious and useful learning, particularly on our Universities"; and there is little doubt that this was among the motives actuating Queen Elizabeth to found this College in 1591. The tone of our early Provosts, professors, and undergraduates was predominantly Puritan. This tone was due in no small degree to the migration to us of learned men from Oxford and Cambridge, who found the atmosphere there no longer congenial. In this world grew up four of our sons whom we honour to-day. These are John Sherrard, Scholar Commoner, 1658; Samuel Mather, congregationalist divine; Increase Mather, President of Harvard College, and John Winthrop the Younger, Governor of Connecticut. It is right that on other Trinity Mondays we should bestow our homage upon our moral philosophers like George Berkeley and our political philosophers like Edmund Burke, the two greatest men, I think, we ever produced. This is, I imagine, the first occasion when we honoured a man so obscure as John Sherrard. Surely it is fitting that we should honour the unknown scholar. Have we not borne in mind the unknown warrior? Unknown! His name, indeed, and where he comes from now; such things, perhaps, we do not know, nor do we need to inquire, but him we know, and did know through four long, terrible, and splendid years. We know almost nothing about John Sherrard save that he was a Scholar when he was nineteen. We to-day have elected Scholars of our College, and ye know what a proud and happy day it is for them, that memorable, never-to-be-forgotten day when they first wear the Scholar's cap. The name and the fame of our Berkeleys and our Burkes have gone to the ends of the earth, yet we do well to remember that our Sherrards have their modest place in our bead-roll. The men of genius are required; so, too, are the men of talent.

THE TWO MATHERS.

Nor does the rank of Samuel Mather greatly exceed that of Sherrard. He was born in 1626. Of his early life little now survives, and this is no great loss. When he was only twelve he wrote his father a letter, noting the state of health of his soul. The letter revolts us when we think that it is written by a lad of twelve, yet we ought to remember that a boy of twelve then was at least as old as a young man of seventeen or eighteen to-day. There is a parallel to it in that curiously fascinating book, "Father and Son," which Edmund Gosse wrote a few years ago. The two facts which stand out in Gosse's book—and, indeed, in the early life of the two Mathers and Winthrop—are the affinity of Puritanism with the scientific rather than the romantic temper, and its incapacity to deal with children. In 1643 Samuel Mather proceeded to the degree of M.A. at Harvard, and that year he was elected Fellow. In 1650 he came to Oxford University, and was appointed one of the chaplains of Magdalen College. In the company of Harrison, Winter, and Charnock he came with Henry Cromwell to Ireland. In 1654 he was incorporated M.A. of Dublin University, and became one of its Senior Fellows. He refused to have the degree of B.D. conferred upon him, for he was ready to say with Melanchthon that he would not accept a higher degree than that of Master. He was ordained in St. Nicholas's Church, Dublin, where he acted as morning preacher. It was soon remarked in our capital that Charnock's invention, Harrison's expression, and Mather's logic, meeting together, would have made the most perfect preacher in the world. It is a pleasure to note the courtesy which Mather extended to divines of the Church of Ireland. Commissions for displacing them were at work in Munster and in Dublin. Mather, however, refused to act on them, alleging that he was called "to preach the Gospel, and not to hinder others from doing it."

From Samuel Mather we turn to his brother Increase, who was born in 1639. When only seventeen Increase Mather graduated as M.A. at Harvard, and became Fellow the year of his graduation. He entered Trinity College, Dublin, and was admitted M.A. in 1658. Dr. Winter, the Provost, entertained a lively respect for him, and he was chosen Fellow of this College. He did not accept this appointment, as the [illegible] of this country did not agree with him. He returned to Boston, where he was ordained in 1664. When Charles II. proceeded to attack the charter of his colony, Mather strenuously urged the freemen of Boston to protest. His action brought him into prominence, and in 1684 he was elected President of Harvard, then the greatest academic institution in North America. He came to London, and his diplomacy from 1688 to 1692 to gain a satisfactory charter rivalled that of Benjamin Franklin. At last he succeeded, and on his return to his native land he was one of the foremost men in the colony of Massachusetts. Of all the many works he has written, none save the pamphlets relating to the Salem Witches are now read.

JOHN WINTHROP.

The last of the four men we commemorate to-day is John Winthrop, first Governor of Connecticut.

SPECIAL EXTRA.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

REALITIES.

Dealing with the subject of Upper Silesia and the fighting which is proceeding there, The Times remarks that the stringent warnings and orders which Berlin declares that it has issued, and which seem to be taken at their face value in certain quarters in this country, do not appear to have been very effective. The Allies are doing nothing and the German Government is profuse in assurances. Meanwhile the fighting goes on. That is the real situation. Will the Allies have the common-sense to cease squabbling and to deal with it as a reality while there is yet time? The Government have at last definitely decided to send some British troops—said to be three or four battalions—to the plebiscite district. The step is right and wise so far as it goes. It is, at least, a visible and tangible sign that the Allies will stand together in upholding their authority against both Poles and Germans. Once they convince all parties that this is their fixed determination the difficulties of restoring order and of carrying out the delimitation will be greatly lessened. The hope of the law-breakers and the adventurers upon both sides is that the differences between the Allies may become so acute as to prevent joint action in enforcing the part of the peace settlement. The actual restoration of order in Silesia may be troublesome and costly in lives, as well as in treasure, now that insurrection has been left unchecked for so long; but the Governments and the nations should remember that every day which passes without the visible reassertion of Allied authority adds to the difficulty of the work and increases the dangers and the risks inseparable from it.

THE COAL DISPUTE.

The Times, in a leading article, observes:—Parliament re-assembles to-day, and, no doubt, questions will be asked about the coal dispute, to which official answers will be given. If they show that a settlement is at hand, it will be an agreeable surprise. Before Parliament rose we expressed a mild hope that the interval might be utilised for the resumption of negotiations between the parties, with or without an invitation from the Government. But no such move has been made. There have been private conversations, journeyings to and fro, much rumour and idle speculation, many outside proposals, suggestions, arguments, and counter-arguments, but little has been done. Nor is there a sign of any real change in the situation. Each side professes to be ready to enter again into negotiations—on the basis that the other side gives way. Opponents are always ready to discuss differences on that simple condition. Every intelligent looker-on can see that there ought to be agreement, and that it could easily be arranged if the antagonists were willing. If a meeting is arranged this week, there are plenty of suggestions to discuss, adds The Times, but it is idle to expect anything to come of them unless there is a sincere desire to come to terms.

MORE AMERICAN COAL FOR EUROPE.

The Times in its "City Notes" states that after several days, during which the inquiry was very slight, there was some revival yesterday of a demand for steamers to load coals in the United States for this country. Two steamers were known to have been secured at freights of 29s. and 28s. a ton respectively. Chartering was also effected on American account for the voyage to French Atlantic ports. Well-known Japanese owners were understood to have accepted a contract for the transport of 7,000 tons of American coals monthly from June to November, inclusive, on the basis of 31s 6d./32s. 6d. per ton. The freight represented a reduction on the rates recently ruling.

EMPIRE DAY.

A Special Correspondent of the The Times, writing on the subject of Empire Day, which is being celebrated to-day, says:—Those few, but rather noisy, people who object to Empire Day should talk with Lord Meath, the founder of the Empire Day movement, as I have been doing. They would then discover that "Responsibility, duty, sympathy, self-sacrifice" are its watchwords, not its catchwords; that the spiritual burdens of a great heritage are emphasised in every programme recommended for school celebrations, and find expression no less in the speeches of the leaders than in the verses of Mr. Kipling and the other writers who help with their pens. The flying of the Union Jack on Empire Day has, therefore, that beneficent significance which by the few is incorrectly attributed to a flag of another colour. "I think," replied Lord Meath, "we may, without boasting, assert that the movement's influence has been deeply felt throughout the entire Empire. Indeed, it has been more felt overseas than here. Some twenty-three millions are estimated to have got under this influence in 1919, including the children attending about 7000 schools within the Empire. Children spend, as a rule, say, five years at school. Evidently, then, a large proportion of those young men from all parts of the Empire who rallied to the Colours during the bloody years from 1914 must have learned at school the watchwords of the movement."

OTHER MORNING PAPERS.

FOREIGN POLICY.

In a leading article devoted to foreign policy, the Morning Post says:—What we need in this country is an interest in foreign affairs, based upon intelligent principles and accurate knowledge. And we might venture to suggest as the first of these principles to secure the existence of our country. France it is our policy to support, not for any love of France, although we might say that there is a love begotten of comradeship in a great trial, but for the safety of our own people. But is France enough? France answers that question by pointing to the East. Here her clear and deep-discerning eye sees much that our people do not notice. Germany and the alien Power in Russia are coming together—were they ever apart? Lenin, having destroyed the national leaders and the national capital of Russia, proclaims that the alien capitalists must be brought in upon their own terms to appropriate the broken remnants of his country. He has, in fact, pulped Russia that Germany may the more easily digest it. Only one factor stands in the way and that is Poland—the Poland which France, by every means, tries to strengthen and make a friend, and the Prime Minister, by every means, tries to weaken and make an enemy. Which, let us ask, is the wiser policy? If Poland had been given but one seaport, Danzig—her own historically—and the industrial part of Upper Silesia, she can be, in population—at the end of the war she might by now have been in a position strong enough to make, with the aid of France and England, a real balance in the East. That is the policy for which France has worked faithfully and seriously. Has England? No. On the contrary, everything has been done to oppose it. And what is the alternative policy on which we are sometimes being subtly guided, sometimes violently directed? An attempt to placate the enemy. We need not repeat the history of the recognition of the Soviet Government of Russia, or pause to enumerate the flagrant violations of that shameful agreement. Nor need we enumerate the attempts to enable Germany at the expense of Poland and of France. Let us content ourselves with saying that it is a policy which cannot succeed, for it is not founded upon the rock of the principles to which we have referred, but upon shifting sands.

ARSON SUSPECTS.

At Wallsend yesterday James Conray (25), school teacher, of Jarrow, secretary of the Irish Self-Determination League branch, and John McAlminton (19), apprentice brass-finisher, Wallsend, were remanded in custody on a charge of setting fire to a boat-works on Saturday night. It was stated, says the Morning Post, that the prisoners, when stopped by the police, were exhausted with running. Their clothing smelt strongly of paraffin. Conray had an automatic pistol, with one cartridge in it. McAlminton had a seven-chambered revolver, fully loaded.

Three Irishmen were remanded at Stockton on a charge of firing stacks near there on Saturday. It was stated that two of the men were seen running away from one of the burning stacks.

ATTACK ON FARMER.

Six men were brought up at Llanelly, says the Morning Post, on charges connected with an attack by six men, who arrived on cycles, on a farm five miles from Llanelly. The farmer, his wife, and son were injured, and the woman's condition is said to be critical. The prisoners were remanded.

LINLITHGOW ARRESTS.

Several men from Stoneyburn, West Calder, and Addiewell (Linlithgow) have been arrested. It is understood, says the Morning Post, that they are suspected of being concerned in an attempt to purchase rifles from soldiers for Sinn Fein.

ALEXANDRA COLLEGE, DUBLIN.

PERFORMANCE OF "TWELFTH NIGHT."

Yesterday a repetition of the performance of "Twelfth Night" was given at Alexandra College, Dublin, for the sake of those who failed to obtain seats last Saturday. It may be mentioned that this production was undertaken by Miss D. Macardle, the Pfeiffer Lecturer in English Literature at Alexandra College, who has gained valuable experience in connection with the Stratford festivals, and to whose ideals and work the success of the performance is largely due.

THE COAL SITUATION.

CONFERENCE RUMOURS.

THE PREMIER MAY ACT.

Mr. Frank Hodges was busily engaged yesterday morning at the miners' headquarters in London. It was stated that there had been no definite developments.

Mr. Frank Hodges yesterday afternoon stated that the coal position was unchanged. The next move rested with the Government.

THE PREMIER'S CONFERENCE.

Although the unofficial coal conversations are proceeding satisfactorily, it is improbable that the Prime Minister can call a conference before to-morrow at the earliest.

THE OWNERS' ATTITUDE.

It was stated yesterday afternoon that there had been no further meetings of the coal-owners. An official of the Mining Association said that the owners were prepared to meet the men at any time on the question of wages, if they dropped the pool. There are signs, he added, that the miners are wavering on the question. We have heard nothing yet of another joint conference.

MR. SPENCER AND THE OWNERS.

Referring to the coal stoppage, Mr. George Spencer, M.P., Nottinghamshire Miners' Agent, said that to continue the struggle for a day longer than was absolutely necessary to reach an honourable settlement would be nothing short of criminal. He invited the owners to make an offer which could alone be acceptable, on the basis of securing for the miners wages commensurate with the cost of living.

A HOPEFUL VIEW.

It is understood that the view in well-informed quarters is that, despite rumours last night of new difficulties, it is still possible for a joint conference to be opened on Wednesday or Thursday, and for a basis of settlement to be arrived at within a week. The invitation to a conference will probably reach both sides this morning. Suggestions last night of a breakdown in the preliminary consultations were not confirmed.

The difficulties to be overcome at the conference table are fully appreciated, but the hopeful feature is that the miners are prepared to discuss alternatives to the pool.

New proposals, it is stated, will be forthcoming in relation to the financial position of the industry, and the basis of wages—calculation and adjustment.

There is very strong hope that well within a fortnight a ballot of miners will be in progress, with a definite prospect of the acceptance of the terms submitted to them.

Some significance is attached to the visit of Mr. Henderson and Mr. Bowerman to the Miners' Federation Headquarters yesterday.

Mr. Herbert Smith had not arrived there last night, and it was intimated that the Federation business might have necessitated his presence at "other places" than London or Yorkshire.

COLLIERY FIRES.

Early yesterday morning a fire occurred at two collieries at Norton, in Moorestoke, the engine banks being destroyed, and valuable machinery damaged. A month will elapse before ventilation can be restored.

GLASGOW DOCK STRIKE.

The Glasgow railwaymen are reported to have forwarded a request to Unity House demanding a delegate conference to consider the strike action.

Although there has been no material change in regard to the strike of the dockers at Glasgow, there are growing signs of an early collapse. Mr. J. Houghton, General Secretary, after a visit to London, reported to the Dockers' Union Executive yesterday the decision of the Executives of the Transport Workers and the National Union of Railwaymen. No statement was made to the Press, but it was learned from an authentic source that both Executives had intimated their intention of taking no action in regard to the trouble at Glasgow Harbour. In view of this, the Dockers' Executive has decided to put the facts before the Strike Committee, and thereafter a mass meeting of strikers will be called, probably to-day, when they will hear the report, and in all likelihood be asked to decide as to the prolongation of the strike.

COAL FROM FRANCE REACHES DUBLIN.

Yesterday the Newcastle-on-Tyne steamer, Eladon, brought a cargo of coal to the South Wall of the Liffey from Dunkirk.

AN ENCHANTED CITY.

BLIND SEER AND CREDULOUS MAZURIANS.

German newspapers contain a curious story of mass suggestion from the country of the Mazurs, in East Prussia, on the Polish border. The Mazurs are a remnant of a Slav people still speaking a distinct Slav tongue, whose home is among the Mazurian lakes, which were twice lost and twice re-won by the Germans during the war. An ancient legend of the country says that close to the village of Muschaken, in the highest peak of the range of hills called the Golden Mountains, is an enchanted city which, through the power of the Evil One, was buried in the mountain, and whose inhabitants for ages have prayed to be delivered. Deliverance, according to the legend, will come some day, and they will then emerge from the mountain and shower endless riches on their deliverers.

Some time ago an aged beggar, who had been blind from youth, appeared in the village and told the people that he was haunted by three beneficent spirits, who had bidden him lead the people to the Golden Mountains, where they should break the spell and release the people of the city and their gold from their secular bondage. The Mazurian peasants believed the tale, and so speedily did faith in the imminent miracle spread that now the whole countryside is given over to prayer, incantation, black and white magic, the old dream dreams, the young see visions, while the more practical-minded get spades and go out at night to dig in solitude on the hillside in the hope of reaching the gold first. On every Sunday and holiday the people flock to the hill from far and near. The roads are blocked with country carts and vehicles of all kinds, motorcars, horsemen and cyclists, all on their way to the enchanted mountain, where in the midst of a crowd of adherents, the blind seer endeavours to break the unholy spell on the lost city.

The correspondent states that matters have come to such a pass already in the Mazurian countryside that it is time for the authorities to intervene. The seer teaches the faithful that not only is there treasure in the city, but an enchanted King, who waits, like Friedrich Barbarossa, until the spell is broken, when he will become King over the people, and, indeed, over all kings and peoples. The wife of a local landowner who ventured to try her luck with a spade alone by night on the mountain became frightened, fled in panic, and is now insane.

NO GERMAN STRIKES.

STAGNATION UNKNOWN IN THEIR PORTS.

At a time when 4,000,000 tons of British shipping is lying idle as a result of the industrial slump, it is significant that German ports show no such stagnation. In comment on the challenge of Germany's industrial recovery Syren and Shipping says:

Some of the members of the Liverpool Steamship Owners' Association, who have recently studied Hamburg conditions on the spot, were impressed by the rapid strides that port is making in the resumption of shipping business. This progress is, of course, the sequel to industrial activity throughout the whole country. It is recognised in Hamburg, and, we presume, throughout Germany, that strikes must be taboo if reconstruction is not to be seriously retarded. The entrances and clearances in the oversea trade, which totalled 1,900,000 net tons in 1919, rose to nearly 7,000,000 tons last year. Formerly 60 per cent. of Hamburg's foreign trade was in German bottoms, while the British share was half as much. Now, on a trade which has sunk to less than one-third of the 1913 volume, we can only claim 21 per cent., the Americans heading us by 2 per cent., and the Germans by 3 per cent.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE AND SILESIA.

In a letter to the Morning Post, Mr. Ronald McNeill writes:—If there is any single point in British foreign policy which we ought to accept as fundamental and essential, it is, I hold, the whole-hearted maintenance of our friendship with France. But while I am in this respect in complete agreement with the Morning Post, I have been a good deal puzzled by its attitude towards the Prime Minister's handling of the Silesian question. It appears to me that it is not the statesmen on either side of the Channel, but the Press on both sides, that look like "smashing the Entente." There is not a word in the speech at which I should have thought our Allies could take umbrage. There is not a word that justifies the Morning Post in speaking of "his attacks on Poland and France," or of his having "provoked France by a public assault on her policy and her friend." It is, I think, especially to be regretted that you should have fallen into the inaccuracy of saying that the Prime Minister "attacks the French Press for their 'impertinence' in daring to make a reply."

A Paris telegram, dated Sunday, states:—A message from Le Bourget announces that the Goliath aeroplane has abandoned the flight for the Grand Prix of the French Aero Club. The airman, Bernard, who landed at Albert in a mist, with his machine damaged, arrived at Le Bourget to-night.

UPPER SILESIA.

BRITISH TROOPS MAY BE SENT.

ANGLO-FRENCH EXCHANGE OF VIEWS.

With regard to reports appearing in the French Press of the exchange of Notes between the British and French Government on the question of Upper Silesia, Reuter's Agency is informed that the expression "Note" is misleading. Communications which have passed between the two Governments have been in the nature of memoranda, reviewing the facts in regard to the insurrection. In agreeing to the holding of a meeting of the Supreme Council, the French Government made no conditions or reservations, but merely asked to be informed of the agenda. The British Government had informed the French Government that it is fully conscious of the need for sending British troops to reinforce the Allies' contingents in Upper Silesia, and the French Government has welcomed the suggestion. It is, therefore, probable that a force of about four battalions, similar to the British force formerly in Upper Silesia, and, if possible, actually the same troops, will shortly be despatched from the Army of Occupation.

Reuter's Berlin Correspondent telegraphed yesterday:—The Montagspost states that four British infantry battalions yesterday set off for Upper Silesia. The same paper learns that the German "Self-Protection Plebiscite Police Corps," the supreme command of which is entrusted to Major Keating, a British officer, have stormed the town of Annaberg, occupied by the insurgents, who lost three guns. Simultaneously a strategic point, Grosstein, north-east of Annaberg, was taken, the Poles losing seven machine guns.

Reuter's Paris Correspondent telegraphed yesterday—A Berlin message says that, acting on the instructions of his Government, Lord D'Abernon, the British Ambassador to Germany, has called on Herr Haniel, Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to ask the German Government to refrain from boycott measures in regard to Upper Silesia, such as the stoppage of remittances and the prevention of revictualling—measures which are calculated, the message says, to impede the restoration of order.

GERMAN VOLUNTEERS' ACTION.

On the question of Upper Silesia, the Petit Journal writes:—The restoration of harmony between Paris and London, and the resumption of the work by the Inter-Allied Commission in Upper Silesia have a significance which will be understood in Berlin. It was time to return to a sane method.

The Petit Parisien says that a reply is being prepared in Paris to Lord Curzon's Note. The reply of the French Government, says this paper, will give the British Foreign Minister the particulars asked for. Commenting on the news announcing a German offensive against Korfanty's troops, the Petit Parisien states that it is now evident that the German action places the Allies under the necessity of intervening rapidly and vigorously.

The Matin expresses regret that the French Ambassador in Berlin should have been the only one to protest on several occasions to the German Government against the movement of German volunteers into Upper Silesia. The situation in that province, the paper continues, is now entirely changed. It is no longer Korfanty, it is the Germans who threaten to place before the Allies a fait accompli.

VIEWS IN OFFICIAL QUARTERS.

Reuter's Agency learns that nothing is known in official quarters in London as to a British officer, Major Keating, Commanding the German Plebiscite Police Corps in Upper Silesia, and the report of the Berlin Montagspost on the subject is not believed for a moment. Some British officers are acting in a police capacity under the Plebiscite Commission, but none is the least likely to serve in, and least of all to command, a German Volunteer force, such as is spoken of in German telegrams.

The decision to send four British battalions from the Rhine to Upper Silesia has only just been taken, and the troops cannot yet have started for their new quarters.

PORTUGUESE CRISIS.

GOVERNMENT RESIGNS.

REPORTED REVOLUTION.

Reuter's Correspondent in Madrid telegraphed yesterday:—The A.B.C. publishes a Vigo message of yesterday's date, according to which travellers who had arrived there from across the Portuguese border reported that a revolution had broken out in Portugal. The accounts they give of the state of affairs are somewhat contradictory. According to some versions, which agree with official reports from Lisbon, Senhor Bernardino Machado, the former Prime Minister, handed in the collective resignation of the Government, which President Almeida accepted.

The latter at once consulted the party leaders with a view to forming a new Cabinet.

More highly coloured reports allege that the whole of the old Cabinet has been imprisoned, and that President Almeida has been deposed. Dr. Santos, it is said, has been appointed President. The reports add that soldiers and civilians belonging to the party of Sidonio Paes are at the head of the movement.

It would appear that the excitement began with the sitting of the Chamber, at which Senhor Bernardino Machado, the old Premier, declared that the Government had no ground for being uneasy, and that there was no reason for its resigning, as no vote of want of confidence or any other form of censure had been passed on it. A stormy sitting lasted until well into the night.

REASSURING REPORTS.

Reuter's Agency learns from an official Portuguese source that the Portuguese Government felt that it did not possess all the necessary conditions to continue in office, although no adverse vote had been passed in Parliament. It examined the whole situation at a Cabinet meeting, and decided to tender its resignation. This was accepted by the President of the Republic, who immediately undertook the usual constitutional steps for solving the Cabinet crisis. It is added that the threats of disturbance have entirely disappeared, and complete order and quiet prevail throughout the country.

A Lisbon telegram, dated yesterday, says:—President Almeida has entrusted Senor August Soares with the task of forming a new Cabinet. There is some talk of a dissolution of Parliament. The President seems assured of the loyalty of all the troops composing the Lisbon garrison. Complete tranquillity now prevails. The political crisis, on the whole, passed off without serious disturbance. A section of the National Republican Guard showed their discontent with the outgoing Ministry by a demonstration, which was, however, of a pacific, rather than of a violent, nature.

GRAVE SITUATION IN EGYPT.

EUROPEANS ATTACKED.

ARRIVAL OF BRITISH TROOPS.

An Alexandria telegram, dated Monday, states:—A grave situation prevails here. Last night there was a rumour that a Greek had killed a native, and this led to an attack by the natives on Greeks and other Europeans. It is reported that many have been killed, and ambulances were busy all night taking wounded to hospital. The mobs were smashing European shop windows from eleven o'clock last night until two o'clock this morning. All places are closed this morning. The Europeans gathered at the Governate at eight o'clock this morning, demanding protection or permission to protect themselves. Firing is now going on all round, and the students and natives are attacking the Europeans. Many places have been burned in the Lebbane district, and it is reported that people have been burned alive. British troops have arrived, and were enthusiastically greeted by the Europeans. They have taken charge of the town.

A later message says:—At mid-day to-day it was announced that five Europeans were killed and 72 wounded, in the rioting last night and this morning. The police casualties are not stated.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

Reuter's Correspondent sent a further message late last night reading:—

An official communiqué, just issued, says that the troubles started between low-class Greeks and natives in Anastasia street from an unknown cause, and the indiscriminate fighting and revolver shooting spread to other districts. Police and Egyptian troops quelled the disturbances by 3 o'clock this morning. At 7 o'clock many incendiary fires broke out over the town, but all were quelled or were under control by mid-day. At 3 o'clock the total casualties were 23 killed and 130 wounded, including 3 native policemen seriously wounded. There were no British civilian or military casualties.

The Correspondent adds:—Firing from balconies by Europeans and natives is continuing. The General Officer Commanding is issuing a proclamation threatening to open fire on such houses with machine guns. The police have made a large number of arrests. The troops are taking up new dispositions for the night.

CAPTAIN THE HON. C. H. G. MULHOLLAND, D.S.O.

In the supplement to the London Gazette, dated 23rd May, 1921, the following announcement appears:—Regular Forces.—The undermentioned relinquishes his appointment:—A.D.C.—Captain the Hon. C. H. G. Mulholland, D.S.O., O.B.E., retired pay.

DUBLIN AMBUSHES.

POLICE TENDER BOMBED.

ATTACK IN LOWER MOUNT STREET.

A tender, to which Crown forces were driving, was ambushed in Lower Mount street, Dublin, a few minutes after 8 o'clock last evening.

The tender came from the direction of the city, and, when passing Grant's Row, two bombs were thrown at it by a number of young men, who had apparently been lying in wait. When they had hurled the bombs the men, who are said to have numbered four or five, ran down Grant's Row. The police in the tender opened fire in the direction from which they had been attacked, but the vehicle did not stop.

There were no civilian casualties, as far as could be learned from inquiries made on the spot soon afterwards, but several people who happened to be within the range of fire had narrow escapes. The collar of one man's coat was pierced by a piece of a bomb, but the skin was not cut. It is not known if there were any casualties among the police.

Only one of the two bombs exploded; the second rolled to the centre of the street, where it lay for some minutes. Hearing the explosion and the firing some members of the Dublin Metropolitan Police hurried to the scene. As they arrived a young man ran out from the footpath and put the bomb in his pocket. He then ran towards Merrion square, pursued by the policemen. One of them, several people who were in the street say, fired a couple of shots after the fugitive, who dropped the bomb at the corner of Holles street and made good his escape. The police then took possession of the bomb and took it to their barracks.

Several houses on both sides of Lower Mount street bear evidences of the shooting. Some windows were pierced by bullets, and pieces of the bomb, and the walls were also chipped in places. It is estimated that after the bomb had been thrown at least twenty shots were fired. There were not very many people in the street at the time, and those who were there sought whatever shelter was available.

DESPATCH RIDERS ATTACKED.

TWO CIVILIANS WOUNDED.

Two military despatch riders, while riding motor cycles between Vicars street and Mulligan's lane, Thomas street, Dublin, at about 4.20 p.m. yesterday, were fired at by four men, just as they were near the Fire Brigade Station.

The riders increased their speed and escaped, but a carman named Bermingham, of Garden lane, who was driving to a hazard, was seriously wounded; and a man named Laurence Flood, 2 St. Mangan's place, Kilmainham, received a dangerous wound in the chest from a bullet. Both men were taken to the Meath Hospital. The assailants escaped.

SEARCHES IN DUBLIN.

Crown forces were active in Grafton street and several other parts of Dublin yesterday, stopping and searching people who were passing along, but so far as is known no one was arrested.

On Sunday night a portion of the Gardiner street area was invested, troops arriving in lorries shortly after 10.30 o'clock. The lorries were accompanied by an armoured car, and the soldiers had the aid of a searchlight in their operations. Several houses were searched.

The residence of Mr. J. J. Manfield, 8 Tritonville road, was searched on Saturday night.

Alderman William O'Brien was arrested on Saturday night, when his house was searched, but was shortly afterwards released.

At about 10.30 a.m. yesterday a party of military visited Mrs. Garnett's fishing tackle shop in Crampton Court, Dublin, and took possession of a quantity of sporting ammunition, it is believed as a precautionary measure. During the operations, which lasted for a little over an hour, a large area around the court was guarded by a cordon of soldiers, military being posted at either end of Essex street and at the Dame street entrance to Crampton Court. Neither pedestrian nor vehicular traffic, however, was stopped.

RAID ON DUBLIN MERCHANT'S SHOP.

Armed men entered the hardware shop of Mr. R. Paul, 5 Aungier street, Dublin, yesterday, and, threatening the staff with revolvers, removed in suit cases articles, the estimated value of which is between £140 and £150.

THE MURDER OF JOHN BYRNE.

MILITARY COURT OF INQUIRY.

A Military Court of Inquiry in lieu of a Coroner's inquest was held in Jervis street Hospital, Dublin, yesterday to investigate the death of John Byrne, of 44 North Brunswick street, Dublin, who was wounded in Jervis street on Friday night last and was taken from the hospital on the following day by armed civilians and shot dead.

The death of Jane Tisney, aged 16 years, a salt packer, of 7 Patrick street, who was knocked down by a tender near Wood quay, was also investigated by the Court.

The proceedings were private.

MILITARY STOP MAIL TRAIN.

The Wexford mail train from Westland Row Station yesterday was stopped by military at Blackrock Railway Station. The officer in charge examined the engine driver and guard, but none of the passengers was spoken to, and no arrests were made. After about 15 minutes the train was allowed to proceed. The object of the hold up is not known.

BRAY GOODS TRAIN SEARCHED.

The goods train to Wexford was "held up" at Bray yesterday morning at 8.30 and searched by military. Nothing is said to have been taken.

ENGINE DRIVER ARRESTED AT BRAY.

James Leggatt, engine driver, was arrested by Crown forces yesterday morning at his home, Kilmantin terrace, Bray.

TREE FELLING AT KILLINEY.

Two trees were cut down yesterday in the Killiney district, one at the entrance to the Victoria Park and one on the Victoria road. Three roads are now blocked in this district, the tree which was arching the Ballybrack roadway not having been removed. On Saturday-Sunday a trench was dug and a tree felled in the Ballinclay road.

MAILS SEIZED AT GLENAGEARY.

Four armed and masked men "held up" the 4.5 p.m. train from Bray at Glenageary Station yesterday. They searched the guard's van, and took away mail bags containing letters for Killiney, Ballybrack, and Dalkey. At 7.15 p.m. a boy entered Dalkey Post Office and handed the postmistress the three mail bags. All the letters had been opened, and were marked, "Censored, I.R.A."

MILITARY AMBULANCE BURNED.

At 10.45 last night the Dublin Fire Brigade received a call to Crane street, where they found that a military motor ambulance was in flames. The firemen extinguished the fire, but not before a good deal of damage had been done. It was impossible last night to learn how the fire originated.

WIRELESS MESSAGES TO SHIPS.

IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENT.

Post offices in London and the English provinces will now accept wireless messages addressed to persons on ships at sea (which are within range of the coastal wireless stations of the United Kingdom) without requiring the sender to specify the wireless station through which the messages should be transmitted. This new arrangement removes what undoubtedly has been a serious obstacle to the free use of wireless telegraphy between England and ocean travellers. Hitherto the post offices have been unable to accept messages where the senders have not been in a position to indicate the costal wireless station through which the message should pass—a piece of information which naturally was not possessed by many persons. Now, owing to the creation of a special department for the routing of wireless messages, the counter clerks in the London and provincial offices have instructions to accept messages for ships of all nationalities, provided it is known that those ships can be communicated with direct by the coastal wireless stations of the United Kingdom. The messages so accepted are sent to a "routing bureau" in London, whence they are distributed according to the movements of the vessels for which they are addressed.

BATTLE IN MAYO.

BIG FIGHT NEAR NEWPORT.

TROOPS HURRIED TO THE SCENE.

SEVERAL CASUALTIES REPORTED.

Our Castlebar Correspondent telegraphed last night as follows:—An engagement on very extensive lines is at present being fought between Republican and Crown forces in the mountainous district lying between Glenhest and Newport.

Up to the time of telegraphing only very meagre details are to hand, but from those it would appear that hostilities commenced shortly after four o'clock this morning by the ambush of a police patrol at Skirdagh, about three miles from Newport, in which District Inspector Munroe was seriously wounded.

The police at once engaged the Republicans, and an intense fire ensued, which lasted for some hours.

Crown reinforcements were immediately sent from Newport, Westport, and Castlebar, and the engagement is still in progress.

The latest report which reached Castlebar states that Constable Maguire, R.I.C., of Newport, has been killed, and that there are several casualties on the Republican side.

ARMED MAN SHOT DEAD.

TWO OTHER MEN WOUNDED.

Dublin Castle states that during a search by police in Upperchurch, Thurles district, Co. Tipperary, Cornelius Gleeson was shot dead. In his possession were found an automatic pistol and twenty-two rounds of ammunition; also a pouch, a bandolier containing seventy-four bullets, and a pair of field glasses.

John Ryan, of Drumbane, and John Bourke, of Glenfishannon, who were wanted by the authorities, were wounded and arrested.

Thomas Stapleton, of Finchy, was also arrested, and in his possession were found a bullet, a pair of wire-cutters, and seditious literature.

Our Thurles Correspondent, telegraphing last night, states:—Last evening a force of police from Thurles and Templemore surrounded the village of Upperchurch, about ten miles from Thurles. Some young men, it is stated, ran away, and were fired on, with the result that Cornelius Gleeson, of Mober, was killed, and two men named Bourke and Ryan were wounded. All of them were brought into Thurles.

The police state that an automatic pistol and ammunition were found with Gleeson, and some ammunition with one of the wounded men.

A Press Association telegram states:—Six lorries of the troops last night engaged eighty Sinn Feiners at Upperchurch, near Thurles. The leader of the insurgents was killed, and a number of others were wounded.

WESTMEATH AMBUSH.

A CIVILIAN CAPTURED.

On Saturday two constables from Kinnegad, Mullingar district, were ambushed about a mile and a half from their barracks by men, who attacked them with shot guns and revolvers. The constables replied to their fire, and eventually routed them, and captured their leader.

PATROL ATTACKED.

POLICEMAN AND WOMAN INJURED.

On Sunday night constables on a cycle patrol in County Longford were fired on at Edgeworthstown by two armed men. One constable was wounded in the left forearm, and a woman named Sarah Brown was also wounded. The attackers escaped through some houses.

AUXILIARIES AMBUSHED.

A number of police of the Auxiliary Division were ambushed yesterday at Bantear, County Cork, but suffered no injury.

POLICE BARRACKS ATTACKED.

The police barrack at Glenties, County Donegal, was attacked by a number of armed men on Saturday night. After a struggle, lasting about twenty minutes, the attackers were driven off.

An unsuccessful attack was made on Sunday on the police barrack, Athy, County Kildare.

Yesterday morning's official reports state that an attack was made at noon on Sunday on Kilmoovy police barrack by armed men, who fired on the building from a wood. The police returned the fire and went in pursuit of the attackers, who were dispersing. An attack on the police followed, but they escaped uninjured.

FUNERALS OF REBELS.

NO DISPLAY ALLOWED.

Our Castlebar Correspondent states that the funeral of James McEvilly, who was killed in the Kilmeena fight on Thursday last, took place on Sunday to the Old Church Cemetery, Castlebar. At all the Masses in Castlebar a letter was read from Colonel Packenham, intimating that the number attending the funeral would be limited to twelve, and that no banners or colours were to be displayed. Military and police patrolled the town in force, but no untoward incident occurred. Earlier in the day the remains of J. Collins, Belfast, who was killed in the same ambush, were interred in the same cemetery. Some friends of his arrived from Westport with a hearse and a coffin, their intention being that he should be buried in the latter town, but they were informed by Crown forces that only half an hour would be allowed for the interment, and they were perforce compelled to carry out the burial in Castlebar. In regard to a third victim of the battle, whose name was given as Smith or Chambers, it was definitely established yesterday that he was a young artisan names Thomas O'Donnell, who had worked for some years in Castlebar, and who was a native of Rosbornock, Newport. His body, not having been claimed, was taken charge of and interred by the local relieving officer.

CASTLEBAR HOUSES TAKEN BY THE POLICE.

Acting under orders from the police six residences at Mountain View, Castlebar, close to the present police headquarters, were commandeered by Crown forces yesterday evening, the residents being given twenty-four hours in which to remove their furniture and effects.

MAN ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Our Drogheda Correspondent states that Thomas Morgan, a young butcher, was with some policemen in Mrs. Connolly's publichouse, in Shop street, Drogheda, when he was accidentally shot. It is stated that he was examining the revolver of one of his companions when the weapon went off, and he received the bullet in the neck. Father Bowen, O.S.A., was at once summoned, and rendered spiritual aid. Dr. Hunt was also quickly on the scene, and attended to the man's injuries. Morgan is severely injured.

YOUTH WOUNDED IN CLONMEL.

On Saturday night, says our Clonmel Correspondent, a party of military called on two young men in the street in Clonmel to halt. One of them did so, but the other, a youth named Power, of St. Mary's place, ran away. He was again called upon to stop, and, when he failed to do so, was fired at, and wounded in the left arm, but not seriously. He was taken to the military barracks, where he was attended by the military doctor. He remains in military custody. Power's companion, T. Hally, was also detained in custody.

TELEGRAPH WIRES CUT.

In Buncrana early on Sunday a number of telegraph poles in the main street were sawn through. On Sunday night the large poles behind the post office, carrying about sixty wires, were cut down, the thoroughfare being strewn with the wires and poles. There is no telegraphic or telephonic communication with the town.

POLICE CONSTABLE'S FUNERAL.

Our Galway Correspondent states that the remains of Constable Kearney, R.I.C., Gort, who was wounded at Ballyturin, Gort, on May 15th, following the Gort ambush, were removed yesterday morning from St. Bride's Home, Galway, where he died, to Glasnevin Cemetery. His sister accompanied the remains. Policemen, Auxiliaries, and a party of the 17th Lancers marched with the remains from the home to the railway station. The Lancers' band was not present owing to the early hour of the removal. Wreaths were sent by the police in Galway and also by his comrades in Gort.

A VILLAGE AMBUSH.

TWO MARINES KILLED.

REBELS HIDDEN IN HOUSES.

PLOT TO TRAP THE MILITARY.

Telegraphing yesterday, our Galway Correspondent says that it would appear that the attack on the Marines at Ballyvaughan, County Clare, on Saturday was carefully planned.

At about 8 a.m. that morning, a party of armed men, estimated at about twenty-five, took possession of the local post office, which commands the road leading from the coastguard station to the village, while other sections of the attackers occupied various positions of vantage.

It is stated that Mrs. Bruen, the post-mistress, was asked to send a bogus call to the coastguard station to request the military to come to the post office, but she refused to do so. It is believed that about 100 men in all took part in the attack.

At about 10.40 a.m. ten Marines under the command of a sergeant left the station to get provisions in the village, a short distance away. Two were unarmed, and the whole party marched in extended formation. They had gone about midway through the village when a terrific fusillade of rifle, revolver, and shot-gun fire was opened on them from all directions.

It was at this time that Private J. J. R. Bolton and Henry Chandler were killed. After the first volley the Marines got into position and took cover in doorways and other inlets, from which they returned the fire. In all, the firing lasted for about five minutes, during which Privates J. D. Levin and J. T. Carroll were wounded. These men, as well as the two dead Marines, were dispossessed of their rifles. The attackers then retreated from the back. It is not known if they suffered any casualties.

The Marines shared the belief that if they had walked in close formation, as was customary, the whole party would have been wiped out.

Private Bolton was aged 19 years, and a native of Great Yarmouth. He received twenty gunshot wounds in the right cheek, a pellet in the left cheek, one in the left calf, and one in the ankle. Private Chandler was 24 years of age, and a native of Kent. He received an expanding bullet in the back, which made an exit wound in the side. He lingered for a short time after being shot. The wounded men, who were removed to St. Bride's Home, Galway, are making favourable progress.

THE MILITARY INQUIRY.

A Military Inquiry into the circumstances that led to the deaths of Privates J. R. Bolton and Henry Chandler was held at Renmore to-day.

After medical evidence had been given, a witness, who stated that he was in command, said that the party left the station for the purpose of obtaining provisions. While they were going through the village up the centre of the road fire was opened on them from all directions. He at once gave orders to take cover and open fire. When he turned around he saw Private Bolton, who was on his right, fall.

A second witness said that he was second in command. He was marching at the rear of the party. When the head of it reached the village fire was opened on them. He ordered the rear members of the patrol to take cover, and they did so. Private Chandler took cover somewhere behind him, and the witness heard him cry out that he was hit. When the firing ceased after about five minutes he sent for assistance.

The finding of the Court will be announced.

FOUND SHOT DEAD.

An official report issued by Dublin Castle yesterday states:—

While Crown forces were carrying out searches and removing barricades which had been placed across the road in the Lissycasey district of County Clare, they were informed that the dead body of a civilian was lying in a field. They went to the spot indicated, and found the body of Patrick Rourke, a labourer, aged 65, who had been shot through the back.

Our Ennis Correspondent states:—A man named Patrick O'Rourke, who is said to be the clerk of the church at Lissycasey, Clare, was shot dead yesterday in that place. A lorry of Crown forces appeared, and O'Rourke, who was in a field, it is said, made away in alarm. He did not halt when called on, and was shot dead. He was between fifty and sixty years of age.

DYING MAN IN A CULVERT.

Patrick O'Brien, of Coolcappa, County Limerick, was found on Sunday morning in a dying condition on the Rathkeale road, beside a culvert, which an effort had apparently been made to destroy. He has since died.

FARM HOUSES BLOWN UP.

CAHIRCIVEEN ISOLATED.

Our Cahirciveen Correspondent states that official reprisals in consequence of the recent ambushes of the police were carried out in Cahirciveen yesterday. The houses of the following persons were destroyed:—Bartholomew Sheehan Villa Nova; Jeremiah O'Connell, Joseph Brennan, Jeremiah O'Riordan, Main street. They were demolished with bombs, and the explosions caused great destruction, the damage being estimated at £1,000. During the operations an aeroplane flew over the town and dropped leaflets. "Curfew" has been proclaimed in the town. The hours are from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. Large reinforcements of the military and Auxiliary police have arrived, and have taken over the Carnegie Hall and other premises. The instruments of the local brass band were seized. Prisoners named Sullivan, Coffey, Daly, and Garvey have been conveyed by a destroyer to an unknown destination. A large number of residents have left the town. Trenches have been cut in some of the roads in the district, rendering them impassable. There has been no train or postal services since the 30th ult., and the town is almost isolated.

COUNTY CAVAN BANK ROBBED.

Our Newbliss Correspondent, telegraphing yesterday, states:—This morning armed men entered the Shercock branch of the Northern Bank, County Cavan, and with revolvers threatened the manager, Mr. Connolly, and the cashier, Mr. Hall, whom they tied up with ropes. They ransacked the bank premises, carrying off, it is alleged, £4,000 in cash. The raiders escaped in motor cars.

LIVELINESS IN DUNDALK.

Our Dundalk Correspondent, writing yesterday, says:—Some extraordinary events have occurred in Dundalk during the last few days. Early on Saturday morning armed civilians visited the houses at Lurgangreen, on the main road to Dublin and about three miles from Dundalk, and compelled the male residents there to cut trees and trench the road in two places. The bridge over the Fane was thrown into the river.

On Sunday afternoon, when a big Gaelic football match was in progress in Dundalk, armed soldiers, police, and Auxiliaries entered the field and ordered a large crowd of men to enter lorries. These men were driven to the scene of the road-blocking, and forced to repair the road for traffic. The visit of the military and police to the playing field resulted in the abandonment of the game. Several people who sought to escape by crossing the paling encircling the field were called back by the discharge of shots over their heads.

To-day, shortly before one o'clock, all traffic in the town was "held up" while the military and police carried out searches on a large scale. A cordon was drawn across the Market square, and the thousands of people assembled for the half-yearly hiring market were searched. Shops in Earl street were closed and the workers therein were ordered up Park street, where they were searched. It was subsequently learned that this measure was due to the fact that early to-day a number of bicycles were stolen from people in the town. Three machines, the property of Mr. B. Q. O'Neill, were stolen, and those owned by the employés of Messrs. Patteson were also taken. It is stated that in some cases the people who took the bicycles covered the owners with revolvers. Two of these bicycles have since been found, and the persons in whose possession they were have been placed under arrest.

POST OFFICE BICYCLES STOLEN.

On the 21st inst. the postmaster at Hays, Co. Meath, was awakened by loud knocking at his door, and on asking who was there he was told to open the door quickly as the I.R.A. had come to see him. He opened the door and four armed and masked men then entered the house and took away two bicycles for which they gave a receipt.

A LAND STEWARD WOUNDED.

James Johnston, land steward, of Ballintemple, County Carlow, was fired at and wounded in the leg and arm on Saturday while resisting armed men, who were raiding his house for arms.

THE PRINCE'S TOUR.

DEPARTURE FROM SCILLY ISLES.

WELCOME AT FALMOUTH.

Telegraphing yesterday from Redruth, the Press Association's Correspondent says:—The Prince of Wales concluded his stay at Tresco this morning. In his honour the breakfast table was decorated with a new bloom, Watsonia Alba, from the Cape of Good Hope, which the Governor has named "Tresco lily." The blooms are of purest china white, and the plant will last in the water until the opening of the last flower on its spike. The Prince greatly admired the flowers, and brought away samples with him.

Shortly before ten o'clock the Prince left in the Governor's launch for the destroyer-leader Wallace, accompanied by members of the house party. He expressed keen regret at leaving so charming a spot, and was cordially invited to return.

Sir Roger and Lady Keys, Lady and Miss Ferguson, Sir Lionel Halsey, Sir Godfrey Thomas, and Mr. Peacock travelled by the Wallace to Falmouth with the Prince, and the voyage was made in splendid weather. The Prince inspected the officers' quarters en route, and afterwards spent most of the time on deck, chatting with his friends and nursing the ship's mascot kitten "Rusty," which graciously adopted him.

FALMOUTH'S WELCOME.

The Wallace and her escort steamed gracefully into Falmouth Harbour at one o'clock. The shipping on either side, including the surrendered German vessels, was smartly decorated, and a crowd of yachts and small boats brought sight-seers alongside to cheer the Prince. The Hon. Henry Trefusis went aboard to welcome His Royal Highness, and as they left together in a yacht for luncheon the companies of both destroyers manned ship and gave rousing cheers for the Prince. The cheers were re-echoed from every neighbouring craft, from the harbour-side, and from the decorated streets of the town beyond.

Most of the streets of Falmouth were filled, but the main collection was on what is called the Moor, a spacious enclosure resembling a market square, flanked by high-perched terraces. The scene in the square was picturesque and animated in the extreme. A central platform, with beautiful floral decorations, was provided for a reception by the Lord Lieutenant, the Mayor, Corporation, and prominent residents, including the rector, the principal Roman Catholic priests, and the senior ministers of Nonconformist bodies. Nearly 600 ex-Service men were drawn up opposite to the platform in a series of lines, and with them were boy scouts, girl guides, and other organisations. On another face of the platform were hundreds of children in fancy costumes, and over all was a canopy of tiny flags. The space available to the public was closely packed, and when the Duke of Cornwall arrived, at three o'clock, the Cornish town welcomed him in a manner that had not been excelled at any previous part of the tour.

The Prince frequently stood erect and bareheaded in his car, waving acknowledgment of his reception. Presentations were made on the platform. The ex-Service men were inspected, and then the Prince left for the Helford Oyster Fishery.

At Camborne the local authorities greeted the Prince in their official capacities.

MOTOR RESTRICTIONS IN ULSTER.

NEW ORDER FOR FOUR COUNTIES.

In connection with the polling for the Northern Irish Parliament, the Commander-in-Chief in Ireland issued an order some days ago relaxing the twenty mile limit and the 9 o'clock Curfew hour for motor vehicles in the Ulster Counties, between 21st and 26th of May.

Yesterday Major-General E. G. T. Bainbridge, Commanding the 1st Division, the Competent Military Authority, published a proclamation cancelling the Commander-in-Chief's order, and re-enforcing both the twenty mile limit and the Curfew hour for motor vehicles, as from 12 o'clock yesterday, in the Counties of Donegal, Cavan, Monaghan, and Louth.

NEWSPAPER EMPLOYEES BOMBED.

An official report issued yesterday states:—At half-past three o'clock this morning a bomb was thrown and shots were fired at four members of the Cork Examiner staff, in Douglas street, Cork. The men were returning home from work when they were attacked. Two of them were dangerously wounded in the legs. The other two escaped without injury.

Our Cork Correspondent telegraphed last night:—A shocking incident took place in Douglas street, Cork, between three and four o'clock this morning, as a result of which one man has lost his life and another will, if he recovers, be maimed for ever. Four members of the night staff of the Cork Examiner, named C. P. Walsh, F. Murphy, S. Dorman, and E. Collins, while on their way home were bombed and fired at. Three of the men fell to the ground as the result of the explosion of a bomb fired at them at short range by a man in civilian attire. Collins, uninjured, but terrified, rushed back to the Examiner office to summon aid for his comrades, and as he did so shots were fired after him, which fortunately went wide of their mark. The wounded men were taken in the municipal ambulance to the South Infirmary. Stephen Dorman had his right leg blown off and an arm shattered. His case was hopeless from the first, and he died at twelve o'clock to-day. Walsh sustained two nasty wounds on the left leg, and is progressing satisfactorily. Murphy, whose wounds are of a minor character, is also as well as could be expected. Poor Dorman was a proof reader, and was very popular with all who knew him. The motive for this shocking crime remains a mystery.

ASSASSINATED ON LEAVE.

The following statement was received from Dublin Castle yesterday:—

A military court of inquiry, in lieu of an inquest, assembled at Levasse, Ballindine, Co. Mayo, to investigate the death of Constable Thomas Hopkins, R.I.C., stationed at Dromore, Co. Tyrone.

Evidence was given to the effect that Constable Hopkins, who was on nine days' leave, left his father's house about 8.30 p.m. with a friend to call on someone at a house up the road, where he was joined by his brother James. They stayed there talking until about 11 p.m., when they left to go home. The brother of the deceased man left about fifteen minutes earlier, and was "held up" by two armed men, who asked him where his brother was. He screamed in an endeavour to warn the deceased man. He was blindfolded, and his hands were bound behind his back. Later, the constable arrived with his friend. The latter was then bound to James with some rope, which had been previously commandeered from an adjacent house by the murderers, who comprised about half a dozen men in trench coats carrying shot guns. The two bound men were then forced to leave the deceased, and were taken up the road. About half an hour afterwards they heard some shots fired. They managed to release themselves, and spent the night in the fields. Just after dawn they went to that part of the road from whence they had heard the shots, and found Constable Hopkins lying dead in a pool of blood. James then cycled to Claremorris, and told the police that his brother had been shot.

Medical evidence proved that Constable Hopkins had two gaping wounds, each roughly two and a half inches in diameter on the left and right front of his neck. They had been caused by a shot gun, fired at close range. There was also a group of scattered small shot spread across his forehead.

The court found that Constable Thomas Hopkins was wilfully murdered by some person or persons unknown.

DISCOVERY OF ARMS AND AMMUNITION.

During a search by Navan police on Saturday they discovered at Randalstown, Co. Meath, one double barrelled shot-gun, one German automatic pistol and magazine for same, one Webley revolver, four bombs, detonators, and a large quantity of ammunition, etc.

CIVILIAN SHOT AT LIMERICK.

On Saturday night, at the canal bank near Rhebogue, just outside Limerick, a party of Crown forces came into collision with civilians. Shots were fired, and one civilian, Patrick Creamer, 25, an ex-soldier, who served two years in the war, was hit in the right breast. The wound is serious. The police version of the occurrence is that the civilians ran away, and when they did not stop were fired at.

ALLEGED RAIDER ARRESTED IN NEWRY.

On Sunday evening a number of armed raiders visited "The Chestnuts," the residence of Mr. James Marsh, V.S., in Monaghan street, Newry, and "held up" the household. It is thought that they were in search of military uniforms. They were, however, unsuccessful in their quest. After the raid a son of Mr. Marsh pursued the raiders, one of whom, it is stated, was arrested.

A Hague telegram, dated yesterday, says:—Dr. Kan, Secretary-General at the Ministry of the Interior, to-day visited Doorn to have an interview with the ex-Kaiser.

THE DUBLIN "ZOO."

ITS WORK AND CLAIMS.

NEARING THE CENTURY.

(BY C. H. B.)

Just over ninety years ago—to be exact, on May 10th, 1830—the Zoological Society of Dublin was founded at a public meeting held in the Rotunda. It was resolved to "form a collection of living animals on the plan of the Zoological Society of London." The Duke of Leinster was in the chair, and many eminent persons attended and made speeches. Various reasons were advanced for the proposal under discussion. The Surgeon-General, Mr. (afterwards Sir) Philip Crampton, the first President of the Society and one of the most enthusiastic guardians of its infant welfare, declared that, with the passing of the Catholic Emancipation Act, Irishmen would now be able to apply themselves to the advancement of knowledge. He also said that he did not see why "the quagga could not be brought into man's service." To-day the quagga is extinct. But the speech of the day appears to have been made by Lalor Shiel, a famous orator of his time. He declared that "we owed our progress in the arts to the lion, and the tiger was our tutor in humanity." The remark was not intended to be symbolic or prophetic, but referred to the allegation of a previous speaker that men had been forced to live in communities—the first step in civilisation—as a defence against wild beasts. Had he lived another ninety years, however, Mr. Shiel might have had occasion to point out that as pupils of the tiger we were coming along wonderfully.

As a leaven of fact to the batch of oratory that graced the occasion, it was announced that the Lord Lieutenant had given a portion of Phœnix Park as a site for the Zoological Garden. That site it still occupies and will continue to occupy if the citizens of Dublin so desire and are willing to translate their desires into annual subscriptions. The real motive for the establishment of the Dublin "Zoo" was to show the Londoners that what was good enough for them was not too good for Dublin—a laudable motive and one that, apart from any other considerations, we should expect to seduce an ample supply of guineas from the pockets of patriotic Dubliners. Though small, the site is more attractive than that occupied by any other European "Zoo," and, though the Council, is continually hampered by lack of funds and, perhaps, not too sternly insistent that brains and energy shall take the place of money, one may see there, well housed and well cared for, a collection of animals sufficiently varied to delight the heart of any child and provide a new vein of thought, grave or gay, for its parents.

As a city, and if you have not the means or the time to get well outside it, Dublin is worse off for places of outdoor entertainment than any other large city in Europe except Belfast. The "Zoo" is one of its rare bright spots. Yet it would be idle to pretend that the Royal Zoological Society of Ireland, as it has long been officially styled, is as well patronised as it should be. I do not mean by this that the attendance at the Gardens is not more than equal to what might be expected or what other "Zoos" enjoy in proportion to the population they have to draw from. But a "Zoo," like many a similar institution, cannot pay its way on the small entrance fees that it is bound to charge if it is to be a benefit to the masses of the people who most need it and cannot afford to be annual subscribers. It is the members and not the visitors, the guineas rather than the sixpences, that make the zoological mare go.

The trouble of the R.Z.S.I. is that there are not enough guineas coming in. The Society would not dream of putting this fact forward in the nature of a complaint. They seem to me to spend their time thanking the Dublin people for all they have done for them when, in my humble opinion, Dublin should be thanking them. Personally, I think that they have a right to complain that the Irish people who have trebled their bank deposits in the last five years have not done more for the "Zoo," which is by now as much a civic institution and a source of pride as the National Museum or the Liffey. I observe that in a circular letter recently issued over the signature of the President and Honorary Secretary recognition is made of "the splendid response given to special appeals" and "the interest taken by the public in the Fêtes held in support of the Gardens." There is no other country in the world where zoological societies have to hold bazaars and issue "special appeals" to get the money to keep going. All concerned would be much too ashamed to be parties to such orgies of mendicancy, whether in the rôle of beggars or begged from. I should be more than astonished if my club announced that it was going to hold a bazaar to keep the dining-room open or was sending the secretary over to the United States to collect donations. We still draw the line somewhere. Yet what is the Zoological Society but a club with an unlimited membership and unlimited accommodation?

I had intended to give a sketchy, but interesting, history of the Society, leading up deftly to the fact that at the present time it must have more subscribers if it is to continue in a manner worthy of itself, of Dublin, and of the Irish people. I had intended to mention the names of some of the great Irishmen who have been active members of the Society as an incentive to the lesser brethren to go and do likewise. I had proposed to appeal to the latent race prejudice of my readers by reminding them that, while, in spite of all her efforts, England has never bred a single lion except in the flowery lairs of symbolism, Dublin's freer atmosphere and more intelligent management turn them out with the regularity of bakers' loaves. But it seems that I plunged, as it were, in medias res, carried away by the righteousness of my cause and the urgency of the moment.

After all, such questions as this should be approached on a practical rather than on an historical basis. The Dublin "Zoo" is more than a luxury—it is a necessity. It is admirably managed, as is always the case where the zeal of the amateur enthusiast takes the place of professional routine. The money received by it is almost entirely expended, directly or indirectly, on the employment of labour. The entrance fee and annual subscription are only a guinea each—less than many a man pays for a day's golf—and the life membership is only ten guineas. Of the Dublin people alone who ought to be subscribers about one-twentieth actually are. That is the case in a nutshell, expressed bluntly and without complimentary references to past favours or grateful anticipations of favours to come. I am not sure that Dublin, which is often neglectful, but never stingy, ever would have neglected the Zoological Society if its plain duty and the needs of the case had been put to it a bit more plainly. Let the proof of the pudding be in the eating, the tutelary tiger worthy of his hire, and the Dublin "Zoo" worthy of the Dublin people.

OBITUARY.

MR. JAMES ROLSTON LONSDALE, M.P.

Mr. James Rolston Lonsdale, M.P., who has represented Mid-Armagh in the Unionist interest since January, 1918, died suddenly at four o'clock yesterday morning at his London residence, 12 Sussex square, W 2, as the result of a heart seizure. He was son of Mr. James Lonsdale, D.L., of the Pavilion, Armagh, and was in his fifty-sixth year. He was educated at the Royal School, Armagh, and at Trinity College, Dublin. In 1907 Mr. Lonsdale held the office of High Sheriff of County Armagh. He was not one of the candidates for the Northern Parliament, the voting for which takes place to-day. Mr. Lonsdale was a brother of Lord Armaghdale.

BRITISH AIRMAN DROWNED.

A Sydney telegram, dated yesterday, says:—Colonel Oswald Watt, D.S.O., a well-known aviator, was drowned here to-day while surf-bathing. Colonel Watt joined the French Flying Corps in 1915, and was decorated by Marshal Joffre for his splendid service.

THE NORTHERN ELECTIONS.

THE EVE OF THE POLL.

FORECAST OF RESULTS.

Our Special Correspondent, telegraphing from Belfast last night, says:—On the eve of the poll in the most momentous election in Ulster many stirring messages were sent out from the leaders of the Unionist Party to their followers. In a message this afternoon to Sir James Craig, Sir Edward Carson says:—"I rely upon ever loyal man and woman in Ulster to rally round you to-morrow in your real fight for civil and religious liberty. Ulster must be saved from the tyranny of the assassin. Vote, vote, vote." Sir James Craig himself issued an appeal to-day to the electors. He asks his supporters to vote early for all the Unionist candidates, and for them only, and continues as follows:—"Do your duty. Let no one stand aside. The cause is sacred and worthy of every personal sacrifice. Rally round me that I may shatter our enemies and their hopes of a Republic. Fly the Union Jack; sweep the polls; vote early; work late. The eyes of our friends throughout the Empire are upon us. Let them see that we are as determined as they to uphold the cause of loyalty."

UNIONISTS HOPEFUL.

Signs to-day are not wanting that the Unionists are confident as to their success at the polls to-morrow. In official quarters there is an optimistic feeling, and the final tussle to-morrow, after a protracted and strenuous campaign, is entered upon with every confidence as to the result. In a previous message I indicated that the Unionist Party would return something like 35 members in the six counties. After a careful study of the position as it is to-day, I adhere to this estimate, and forecast the return of candidates for the various divisions as follows—Queen's University—Four Unionists; East Belfast—Three Unionists, one Nationalist; West Belfast—Two Unionists, one Nationalist, one Sinn Feiner; North Belfast—Three Unionists, one Labour; South Belfast—Four Unionists; County Down—Five Unionists, one Nationalist, two Sinn Feiners; County Armagh—Two Unionists, one Nationalist, one Sinn Feiner; County Derry—Three Unionists, one Nationalist, one Sinn Feiner; County Antrim—Five Unionists, one Nationalist, one Sinn Feiner; Counties Tyrone and Fermanagh—Four Unionists, one Nationalist, and three Sinn Feiners. This gives a total of thirty-five Unionists, seven Nationalists, nine Sinn Feiners, and one Labour.

CELEBRATION OF EMPIRE DAY.

There has been a great wakening on the part of Unionist voters during the past week, and there is now an enthusiasm that is manifesting itself wherever one goes. To-night preparations are in progress for the celebration of Empire Day, which synchronises with polling day, and most of the establishments will suspend business. The public-houses will, by order of the military authorities, be closed during the day, and the Curfew hour has been extended for the occasion from 10.30 to 11 o'clock. This will prove a great advantage to many voters from outlying districts, who will be required to come into the city after their day's work, and will thus be enabled to get home again within reasonable time.

POLLING ARRANGEMENTS.

Beyond an open air Unionist demonstration to-night at the Cliftonville Football Ground there was no Unionist meetings. Candidates and all concerned were concentrating their energies to-day in making final arrangements for the great fight at the polls to-morrow. Polling will begin at 8 o'clock, and in some divisions will continue right up to 9 o'clock at night. This particularly applies to the working class districts. The counting will begin at 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning. The Queen's University result should be declared about noon on that day, but the figures for the other divisions will hardly be announced before Thursday or Friday.

LORD MAYOR AND THE PEACE OF THE CITY.

The Lord Mayor issued an appeal this evening, asking the citizens to refrain from any action which might endanger the safety and reputation of the city, and to assist the authorities in every way in the preservation of the peace. "Especially I advise you," he adds, "that so far as possible you should remain in your own districts, and not move about in a procession."

AN OUTBREAK OF RIOTING.

This evening there was some slight disturbance in the city end of Old Lodge road and at the corner of Lime street. The outbreak was quelled by the police. Shortly afterwards a crowd assembled in Davis street, at the junction of Townsend street, and then went as far as Water street, where stone-throwing was commenced. A Crossley car containing police and a machine gun came on the scene, and the crowd was dispersed.

Rioting was renewed in the Old Lodge road district at night. Rival political parties came into conflict, and stoned each other, while occasional pistol shots were exchanged. Police reinforcements were despatched to the scene of hostilities. They arrived in a Crossley tender, which was fired upon, and two of the policemen had narrow escapes. Sergeant Reynolds, who was in charge of the party, received a bullet in his tunic, but it did not penetrate to the flesh. Constable McFarland, who was in the tender, had his cap pierced by a bullet from a revolver. The disturbance continued for a considerable time, but with the approach of "Curfew" peace was restored.

MR. DE VALERA AND THE NORTHERN ELECTIONS.

"A TRULY UNITED IRISH NATION."

The following appeal from Mr. de Valera was telegraphed yesterday from the Sinn Fein headquarters to several districts of the Northern Parliamentary area:—

"Men and women of North-East Ulster, politicians and statesmen declare the Irish 'problem' insoluble, but you, the plain people, can solve it in a few hours to-morrow in the quiet and privacy of the polling booth.

"Had the distracted peoples of Europe in 1914 your chance, there would have been no war, and Europe would not have been made desolate, with a greater desolation awaiting it in its 'statesmen's' peace.

"Vote to-morrow against war with your fellow-countrymen, vote that brother's hand may not have to be raised against brother's, vote so that there may be an end to boycott and retaliation, to partition, disunion, and ruin.

"Lead the world by your example. Make a genuine people's peace. Live in history as having created a truly united Irish nation. Orange and Green together can command the future. Ireland one is Ireland peaceful, prosperous and happy. Vote for it.

"EAMON DE VALERA."

THE LATE MR. G. C. FELSTEAD.

The death has taken place, at the Esplanade House, Whitehead, of Mr. George C. Felstead. For over seventeen years Mr. Felstead was manager of the Grand Central Hotel, Belfast, and when the building was acquired by the War Office in 1917, Mr. Felstead opened an hotel at Esplanade House, Whitehead. The high esteem in which Mr. Felstead was held by his brother-hotel managers was shown by his election in 1915 to the office of President of the Belfast and North of Ireland Hotel Association. He also took an active interest in the development of the tourist traffic in the North of Ireland. He was a good all-round sportsman.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY.

necticut. In 1622, when only 17, he entered Trinity College. He appears to have been studious. At least, he asked his father to send him books. He liked our land, and one reason why he liked it was that he lived with his uncle, E. Downing, whose name is renowned the world over in the street in which the British Cabinet meets—the famous Downing street. In 1631, he joined his father in New England, where he was appointed a member of the Executive Council. He had scientific tastes—he was Fellow of the Royal Society, and his tastes confirm our view of the affinities of Puritanism with the scientific temper. In 1651, he received the same position in the colony of Connecticut, and for the rest of his days he laboured in that colony. We only obtain glimpses of the character of Winthrop, when some of us might wish for a view. Still, these glimpses suggest an aspect of the life of one who served man because he served God. The seven good gifts were all there, but especially love, which he gave and receives, alike in life and death. As one who knows something of the honour and simple nobleness of the man, there come to my lips the words of the Roman historian in commemorating Rome's most spotless son: Qui nunquam recte fecit ut facere videretur, sed quia aliter facere non poterat. Winthrop was a Puritan, but a Puritan who had received the seventeenth century Renaissance in science. He was a Puritan whom the beauty and the mystery of austere dutifulness warmed into life and action. The immigration of the seventeenth century to the United States, the Mathers and the Winthrops, was insignificant in quantity: it was significant to the last degree in quality. It is absurd to measure immigration by its volume. Its spirit is of infinitely greater importance, and its spirit was such that it has permanently changed the temper and the thought of the whole of North America. It has settled for the future the predominance of English civilisation.

Had not the Puritans, the Mathers and the Winthrops felt aloof in the land of their birth, it seems most probable that the bulk of the inhabitants might to-day be as French as is the province of Quebec. It is one of those tremendous might-have-beens on which it is impossible not to speculate. Had it been possible for Canada to have remained a French possession, there would have been two outlooks on civilisation, and in the ensuing conflict the English would have won, but not won so completely as to eradicate French influence. The adoption of the Constitution by the fathers of the new republic made the English mould not so much the predominant as the only one.

VIOLENT METHODS IN IRELAND.

MOST REV. DR. HOARE AND THE MURDER OF POLICEMEN.

Preaching at the First Gospel on Sunday in St. Mel's Roman Catholic Cathedral, Longford, the Most Rev. Dr. Hoare said that the appalling news which reached them during the past week from New Park and Killoe filled them with horror and alarm. As the minister of Christ he was charged to preach the Gospel to them, and, as he said before, there was no getting behind the truth that lying in wait to shoot policemen was murder, and consequently a breach of the Fifth Commandment. He exhorted the congregation to practise the holy virtue of patience and self-restraint, with frequent intercession to the Blessed Lady, that God might be pleased to restore peace and tranquillity to their distracted country.

ROMAN CATHOLIC BISHOP'S APPEAL FOR RESTRAINT.

Speaking on the occasion of his triennial visitation at St. Mary's, Clonmel, the Most Rev. Dr. Hackett, Roman Catholic Bishop of Waterford, said that their one mainstay in the present troubled times was their religion. He appealed to them to adhere to the traditions of the Irish people, and see that they were handed down pure and unsullied. He had received a letter from the Pope that morning. It would be read in the churches on Thursday, and would give the Irish people encouragement in the present sufferings that they were going through. Their people were being treated as the very swine of the earth; their lives and liberties were being trampled upon, when, as the Pope says, the persons of the sacred ministry were not even safeguarded, and even their sacred places were violated. They required great patience at present, and should be on their guard that these conditions would not urge them to do anything that would bring God's anger upon them. They should strive to restrain themselves, and not give the least rein to passion, or do anything that would incur the anger of God.

MOST REV. DR. HARTY AND THE SITUATION.

Speaking at the unveiling of a Lourdes grotto in the Convent grounds, Fethard, the Most Rev. Dr. Harty, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Cashel, urged the people to pray for themselves, their friends, and the needs of their country. Prayer had helped them to come victorious through days of persecution in the past. These were sad days in Ireland, and he asked them to pray, and pray with confidence, to be freed from the unhappy turmoil around them, so that Ireland would again become one of the greatest nations under God's skies.

BELFAST BUILDING TRADE DISPUTE.

PROPOSED TERMS OF SETTLEMENT.

The Lord Mayor of Belfast is endeavouring to effect a settlement of the building trade dispute, and yesterday a joint conference of the Belfast Builders' Association and operatives met in the City Hall. The representatives of the Builders' Association submitted the following proposals:—An average 44-hour week as follows:—47 hours for six months, 42 hours for three months, and 40 hours for three months. Skilled workers to be paid 2s. 2d. per hour (which is the London rate) till 1st August or 1st September, after which a sliding scale, based on the cost of living, to come into operation. Labourers—Unskilled, 1s. 2d. per hour; hodsmen, scaffolders, etc., 1s. 4d. per hour, till 1st January next.

The representatives of the operatives insisted on the continuance of a 44-hour week all the year round, unless a change from these hours was made by the building trade in Great Britain, and on the payment of a 2s. 2½d. rate for skilled workers, and for labourers 1s. 4d., 1s. 5d., and 1s. 6d. These proposals were to continue in force without modification up till 1st May, 1922, irrespective of any change in the cost of living in the meantime.

The conference terminated, the representatives of the operatives undertaking to place the proposals of the Builders' Association before their respective societies.

GERMAN WAR CRIMINALS' TRIAL.

Reuter's Leipzig Correspondent telegraphed under yesterday's date:—The proceedings in the Supreme Court against alleged German war criminals opened here to-day, in the presence of the British Commission, headed by Sir Ernest Pollock, Solicitor-General. There was a fair attendance in the public galleries, including a representative of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. The first case to be tried was that of Sergeant Heynen, who is accused of ill-treating prisoners of war at the Herne Camp, Germany.

CENTENARY METHODIST CHURCH.

DEDICATION OF WAR MEMORIAL.

A memorial tablet to the memory of those who were killed in the war, and those who served, was unveiled at the Morning Service in the Centenary Church, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, on Sunday. The memorial is in the form of three brass tablets, the centre one, with the names of those who died, resting on an oak ground. It was designed by Mr. E. Corr, and finely executed by Messrs. M'Gloughlin, Ltd. An appropriate form of Service was specially compiled for the solemn ceremonial, and a large and representative congregation filled the church. Besides the minister of the church, the Rev. W. R. Budd, the Rev. T. J. Irwin, Litt.D.; the Rev. J. Dwyer Kelly, C.F., and the Rev. W. B. Lumley; with Miss T. J. Rogers and Mr. T. Bagnall, official representatives of the Centenary congregation, took part.

The central panel was first unveiled by the Rev. W. R. Budd in a few fitting sentences, and after Miss T. J. Rogers had read the Roll of Honour, a brief Dedicatory Prayer was offered.

The Rev. Randall C. Phillips gave a brief sketch of the eight young men to whose memory the memorial had been dedicated. He preached from Isaiah lvi., 5: "I will give unto them in Mine home and within these walls an everlasting name." Passing briefly over the historic context of the words, he showed the parallel between the disabled sons of Israel and those whose early death they mourned that day. He contrasted the spirit and calling of these young men—true sons of peace—with those who were born amid militant associations, and said that the war was a great revelation of the innate heroism of the ordinary man, and deeper than feelings of patriotic duty were the strong connections which compelled these youths to face conditions which were contrary to all their tastes and preferences, and made them willing to die for the greater things, dearer even than the love of life. He concluded with two passages taken from "A Student in Arms" and the gifted poet, Rupert Brooke.

The solemn ceremony fittingly closed with the hymn, "For all the Saints who from their labours rest."

THE SHOOTING OF FATHER O'CALLAGHAN.

At the Victoria Barracks, Cork, yesterday, a military court, in lieu of an inquest, sat to take evidence as to the shooting of the Rev. James O'Callaghan, Roman Catholic curate, at the residence of Mr. de Roiste, M.P.

A police officer stated that of four summonses which he had received he had served three—on Father Jones, Sunday's Well; on Father O'Brien, the Cathedral, and on Mrs. de Roiste. Mrs. de Roiste refused to accept the summons, stating that she would not attend. The priests told him that they could not be of any assistance to the court, as they were not present at the shooting of Father O'Callaghan.

The court then adjourned for a direction from the Military Governor as to the further proceedings to be taken.

ALLEGED ILLEGAL COLLECTION OF RATES.

CIVILIANS COURTMARTIALLED IN WATERFORD.

At a Field General Courtmartial in Waterford yesterday Patrick Walsh, of Rochestown, County Wexford, was charged with, on the 13th April last, receiving two rate books and two receipts for poor rate, knowing them to have been stolen. In a second count he was charged with being in possession of the books he not being a rate collector appointed by the Local Government Board.

Accused refused to recognise the Court.

Principal witness stated that on the night of the 6th January last his house door was knocked at, and on opening it he saw one tall man standing on the door step, and there were two or three more behind him. All were disguised, by having the lower parts of their faces covered with white scarves or cloths. The tall man said that he had come to collect the rate collection books, that there "was an order out to that effect." Witness was afraid he would be attacked, and he went upstairs and handed out to the raiders seven rate collection books and an abstract book. Witness was a rate collector for a certain district in the County Wexford, and he had never been notified that his appointment had been revoked by the Local Government Board.

A police witness gave evidence that he found the rate books in the possession of the accused, and also a list of the names of ratepayers in the Taghmon and Carrick-on-Bannow district of County Wexford, with the amount of rates payable by them set opposite their names.

Accused made the following statement:—I am a Democrat. I believe in the principles of democracy, and, according to those principles, government must be based on the will of the governed. I understand that the County Council of Wexford has been appointed by the overwhelming majority of the electors of the county. Therefore, I consider it a perfectly legal body. If the County Council is a legal body, I am sure that the employés of the County Council must be legal.

Accused was found not guilty of the second charge. Judgment was reserved in the case of the first charge.

John Sinnott, of Newtown, Co. Wexford, was charged (1) with receiving a poor rate demand note, knowing it to have been stolen; (2) with being in possession of same and collecting rates, he not being a duly appointed rate collector.

Sinnott was found not guilty of the charge of receiving. Judgment was reserved in the other two charges.

THE ATTACK ON MALLOW BARRACK.

SIX CIVILIANS CHARGED WITH MURDER.

At Victoria Barracks, Cork, yesterday, a General Courtmartial assembled for the trial of six civilians:—John Murphy, Fair street, Mallow; David Buckley, Farrin, Mourneabbey; Denis Barter, Kilquaine; Owen Harold, Bank place, Mallow; Daniel McCarthy, Lahakineen, Mourneabbey, and Timothy Breen, Brittas, Lombardstown, who were charged with having, at Mallow on 28th September last, feloniously, wilfully, and of their malice aforethought, killed and murdered Sergeant William Gibbs, 17th Lancers.

Mr. P. Lynch, K.C., and Mr. Joseph McCarthy appeared for Buckley; Mr. A. E. Woods, K.C., and Mr. J. F. Bourke for Murphy, Barter, Harold, and McCarthy; and Mr. Bourke for Breen. The accused pleaded not guilty.

Prosecuting counsel said that he would prove to the entire satisfaction of the Court that the murder was committed in the course of an organised raid upon the barrack at Mallow by a number of civilians. It was directed with skill by at least one officer, under whom were a number of men, including the six prisoners. A detachment of the 17th Lancers were stationed at Mallow Barrack consisting of one officer and thirty-seven other ranks. Counsel could not call that officer because he had been killed since, but he had given a summary of evidence. That officer and some of the men left to exercise their horses, leaving a number of men in charge of the barrack. Counsel then described how the barrack was "rushed," and said that in the firing by the civilians Sergeant Gibbs was shot dead. When the officer and his men returned with their horses they missed twenty-one rifles, some bayonets, and two Hotchkiss guns. The Court would have no doubt on the question of identification.

The case is expected to occupy some days.

ROMAN CATHOLIC CLERGYMEN COURTMARTIALLED.

A field general courtmartial assembled at the New Barracks, Limerick, yesterday for the trial of the Rev. Michael McKenna, C.C., and the Rev. Patrick Gaynor, C.C., both of Mullagh, Co. Clare. The accused were charged with (1) having, on 1st April, in their house at Mullagh a document containing statements the publication of which would cause disaffection—namely, a paper refusing to recognise the protection of the British Government, and placing their house under the protection of the Irish Republic; (2) with having in their possession on the 1st April a document purporting to relate to the affairs of an unlawful association—namely, Dail Eireann.

The accused refused to recognise the court, and a formal plea of not guilty was entered.

Evidence having been given, the court reserved judgment.

EXTREMISTS PREVAIL AT ANGORA.

An official telegram from Angora says the Ministerial crisis there has been settled by the maintenance in office of Fevzi Pasha as President of the Council of Commissaires, with Yussuff Kemal Bey, the present Nationalist Envoy at Moscow, as Commissaire for Foreign Affairs. Fevzi is champion of the "no surrender and no compromise policy." His maintenance in office confirms the fact that extremist views prevail at Angora.

A Constantinople telegram, dated Sunday, states:—The Angora newspapers publish long accounts of the trial of an Indian Moslem, Mustafa Saghir, an alleged British agent, represented as having confessed that he had been sent to organise the overthrow of the Kemalist Government and assassinate Mustafa Kemal on behalf of the British, and as saying he was supplied by Lord Curzon with invisible ink for despatches. Saghir's cock-and-bull stories furnish material for the vilification of the British, who are further accused of utilising Greeks to exterminate Moslems.

DUBLIN WATER SUPPLIES.

RESERVOIR'S LOW LEVEL.

PUBLIC ECONOMY URGED.

The present level of water in the reservoir which supplies Dublin is the lowest since 1893. People who furtively water their gardens after "Curfew" hour and just switch off the spray so that the last passers-by will not notice it should remember this. They should bear in mind also (if they were not unfortunate enough to experience it) that in 1893 supplies for domestic use had actually to be drawn from the canals. These facts might with equal force be addressed to those who let the tap "run" while they search for the misplaced toothbrush, lazily turn the stream full on to sluice the dinner services, or to rinse the vegetables which father has just brought home all dirty from the "plot."

The Engineer's department of the City of Dublin Corporation expects that this summer the citizens will continue to keep themselves and their households as clean as usual, but that those who may be classified as wasteful will correct their dangerous habit for their own and the general public interest. It is not believed that the extreme dryness of 1893 will prevail, but in the absence of reliable signs to the contrary, and the continuance of the fall in the level at the reservoir, the citizens must use economically the water that now flows freely. The City Engineer (Mr. Buckley) is conserving the supply well. Already he is measuring the water out of the reservoir daily. At the other end of the water "lines" are the inspectorial staff, who, employed all the year round to watch that none is guilty of waste, are particularly on the alert now.

There is a general impression abroad that a reservoir is an unlimited source of supply. It is so long as the rains are unlimited; but the rains this spring have been bad. The Engineer has been abroad himself in the outer townships to secure notoriety for the Vartry's shrinking stock and to organise the co-operative effort of local authorities on behalf of economy in the use of Vartry water.

If the instructions given below are honestly observed it is very probable that the public will not be reduced to a supply of water for a limited number of hours a day:—

HELPFUL HINTS.

Never let a tap run continuously while washing of any kind is being performed. Draw off just enough water in a vessel and close the tap.

Only the smallest amount necessary should be used when washing household utensils, hands and face, vegetables, or clothes.

Dispense with baths for the present (rise earlier and go for a swim).

The use of hose is strictly forbidden for any purpose. Water used for washing can afterwards be used with advantage in the garden.

Immediately when fittings show signs of becoming defective they should be repaired.

A telephone message to 4317, or a note by hand or post to the City Engineer, Castle street, Dublin, will ensure immediate stoppage of waste.

COURTSMARTIAL RESULTS.

The following results of trials by Courtsmartial were issued yesterday:—

Patrick O'Halloran, Scallaghan, and John Witheroe, Spittal, Co. Tipperary, were tried at Cork on the 16th May. It was stated that on the 26th November last, at Tipperary, a military patrol was proceeding down Main street, and saw two civilians going ahead of it. A lieutenant called on them to halt, which they failed to do. One of the men started to run, and the other turned and fired at the officer, who immediately fired on both. The man who first ran fell, and while in pursuit of the second man the latter fired two more shots in the officer's direction and disappeared. Witheroe was afterwards found in his house wounded in the leg. O'Halloran was found in a doctor's house with a wound in his chest. The latter was identified as the man who fired on the officer. O'Halloran was sentenced to 15 years' penal servitude. Witheroe was found "not guilty," and released.

Michael Burke, Folkstown, Ballinure, Co. Tipperary, was tried in Cork on the 16th May. It was stated that on the 1st August, 1920, military were searching houses in the village of Moyglass, Co. Tipperary, and saw a group of men. They were ordered to put up their hands. Three obeyed and the fourth (accused), who had a bicycle, ran away. He was pursued and caught. He drew a bomb from his pocket, but it was wrenched from him. When searched he was in possession of one Colt automatic pistol, fully loaded, and eight rounds of ammunition. Sentenced to 10 years' penal servitude.

John Gilsenan, 3 Cross Kevin street, Dublin, was tried in Dublin on the 12th May. It was stated that on the 10th May the accused was noticed by a patrol walking away in a suspicious manner near Montague street, and started to run. He was halted and searched, and was found in possession of a 4.5 pistol, loaded in two chambers. Sentenced to five years' penal servitude.

Charles Leonard, 33 Henry street, Dublin, was tried by a Field General Courtmartial, Dublin, on the 12th May. The charge was that on the 10th May, near Montague street, during a "hold up" of civilians the accused when searched had a bomb in his right hand coat pocket. He was sentenced to five years' penal servitude.

ARMS AND AMMUNITION.

EVIDENCE AT WATERFORD COURTMARTIAL.

At a Field General Court-martial yesterday in Waterford, John Neill and Richard Donnelly, civilians, of Davidstown, Taghmon, Co. Wexford, were charged with being illegally in possession of arms and ammunition. Neill was further charged with the larceny of postage stamps to the value of £2 2s. on 29th April last at Killurin, Co. Wexford. Donnelly was also charged with the larceny of £6 7s. 9d. worth of stamps on the same occasion. A fourth charge against Neill was for giving a false name and address to the police.

A police witness stated that Neill gave him a false name and address on 14th May last, when witness was searching the house where the two accused resided at Davidstown. On searching Neill he found in his inside pocket 72 2d. stamps in one sheet, 120 2d. stamps and 120 stamps which were loose. Neill said he got the stamps from a fellow whom he did not know. In the bottom of a grandfather clock witness found thirteen cheese sandwiches in paper.

Another witness deposed to finding 349 2d. stamps, eight 5s. stamps, eight 2s. 6d. stamps, and 60 2d. stamps in the drawer of a table in the parlour of a house where Donnelly resided.

A military witness stated that he found a revolver hidden in the crevice of the outer wall of the house. Witness used a pick on the wall, and, a bigger opening having been made, several rounds of revolver ammunition were found. In the gutter outside he found a tin of flat-nosed ammunition and one round of small arms ammunition, as well as other revolver bullets.

A railway guard described a "hold up" of a goods train which carried mails from Dublin to Wexford on 29th April last.

Accused were found not guilty of the larceny charges. Judgment was reserved in the other charges.

RAIDS ON DUBLIN OPTICAL RETAIL HOUSES.

In connection with the report of the raids made on Dublin optical retail houses, which appeared in our issue of yesterday, Mr. Thomas H. Mason writes to say that his sole address is 5 and 6 Dame street, Dublin.

EUROPEAN ORPHANS FOR AMERICAN ADOPTION.

In a telegram from New York yesterday, Reuter's Correspondent states:—Considerable interest has been aroused in American homes by the scheme promoted by the American Committee of the British National Adoption Society for sending British orphans to the United States for adoption by childless couples. Twelve of these baby pilgrims arrived yesterday on board the Aquitania, and to-day the Committee's headquarters were besieged by hundreds of women clamouring for one of the children. The success of this first experiment has decided the American Committee to "import" more babies immediately.

M. KRASSIN RETURNING TO LONDON.

Reuter's Stockholm Correspondent telegraphed yesterday:—M. Krassin has arrived here from Russia. He will leave for London, via Berlin, to-night, and on his arrival in England intends to start negotiations for opening a central commercial establishment—possibly a Soviet bank—in London.

INDIA AND CHURCH AUTONOMY.

The claim for an autonomous Church in India is growing, but the disposition of the missionary societies at home, while quite in sympathy with this desire, is to wait for further developments. It is regarded as necessary to move cautiously, lest bitter disappointment to all concerned should result. The National Missionary Society of India looks upon the movement as "a conception of brotherhood," which means that "a group of nations like the British Empire should live together as a family, in which there should be no thought of exploitation of weaker races, or of discrimination against any peoples on purely racial grounds." It is, however, quite impossible for the Church in India to become fully autonomous without a sufficient supply of money, but the efforts now being made to induce Indian Christians to recognise their responsibility may remove that difficulty.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

UNIONISM.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Your leading article of Saturday last suggests that some misapprehension exists as to the meaning of the term "Unionism." You would appear to indicate that the term should be limited to union between Northern and Southern Ireland. I venture to suggest that it has a far wider meaning. The outstanding fact in Irish politics to-day is that the policy of Home Rule, as hitherto understood, is dead. The only issue now is between union with Great Britain and the Empire and complete independence. Those who are in favour of the former still claim the right to call themselves Unionists, and are entitled to do so. The Act of 1920, while modifying the Act of Union, has not repealed it. Few, if any, believe that the recent Act will ever come into operation so far as Southern Ireland is concerned. It is sufficient commentary on the recent so-called elections to the Parliament of Southern Ireland to point out that of the 124 Sinn Fein members returned unopposed, 45 were in jail at the time of their election, and it is reported in the Press that others have since joined them there. They are all rebels against the Crown.

In addition to this, abundant evidence exists that the Irish revolutionary movement is in direct touch with the Third (Communist) International at Moscow, whose object is the overthrow of the Capitalist system throughout the world, the establishment of a Workers' Republic, and, as a means thereto, the destruction of the British Empire. The connection between those who control the Irish revolutionary movement and these foreign agencies has been repeatedly pointed out and has never been contradicted.

There never was a time when it was of such paramount importance to maintain the principles of Unionism. Those who hesitate now to take their stand on the side of Unionism incur the very grave responsibility of aiding the forces whose object is to bring about the downfall of the Empire.—Yours, etc.,

JOHN E. WALSH, Honorary Secretary.

AN IRISH REPUBLIC.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I found "Ajax" very interesting on Saturday; but, in spite of his fanciful phrasing and his ironic touch, I remain obdurate and unconvinced. He begins with a disquisition on the subject of "rights" which is altogether too subtle to pierce my Bœotian brain. I referred, of course, to the moral right—the natural right—of a nation to choose its own form of government, and this right, as we know, was conceded in the Fourteen Points, and received the special benediction of Mr. Lloyd George, until he thought it opportune to drop the subject like a hot coal. At Llandudno, a year ago, he told his audience that, while condemning murder, he quite approved of the ideals and principles of Sinn Fein, and then proceeded, with becoming logic, to fill English and Irish jails with untried prisoners. I am not, as I have already explained, an advocate for Sinn Fein. I consider their policy (apart from their violent methods) utterly impracticable under present conditions; but, as they constitute the overwhelming body of the electorate of this country, they are at least entitled to claim what form of government they choose.

This brings me to the close of your correspondent's argument, "Might is right!" he proclaims from the house-tops. England has her Army and her guns. She can crush the mere Irish and force them to yield in the end. What a pernicious doctrine—the doctrine of brute force! It is the outstanding fact of the situation, says "Ajax"—and I agree. Our memories, sir, are sometimes very short; but surely it seems only the other day since, from a thousand pulpits and a thousand platforms in England, we heard thunders of denunciation hurled against the Hun, with his loathsome kultur, for trampling under foot the sacred rights of gallant little Belgium. The war, we were told with wearisome iteration, was waged in defence of small nations—to crush the damnable doctrine that "might was right." Now England, after all, is preaching the same creed as the Hun. Mutato nomine de te fabula narratur.—Yours, etc.,

THE ROYAL DUBLIN SOCIETY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Our forceful indictments of the controlling spirits of the Royal Dublin Society have succeeded in making their organisation cry "Peccavi" for past sins, and everyone would be delighted to appraise the perfection of their contrition; but we maintain that the demoniacal inspiration which prompted the invitation of the Lord Mayor of Belfast to join their Council proves that they are in a recalcitrant, rather than a contrite, mood. The Lord Mayor of Belfast stands as protagonist of the gang who would tear Ireland into fragments, and as chief citizen of the incubating nursery of political and religious tests. Will the co-option of a disciple of such tenets tend to eliminate bigotry from the Royal Dublin Society?

It is sufficiently strong reason for the assurance of our sympathy with the expelled Catholic workers of Belfast that the Royal Dublin Society gratuitously insults them. We must convert our sympathy into something more substantial.—Yours, etc.,

WILLIAM PAUL (Chairman).

AMERICAN COAL SUPPLIES.

ROTARY CLUB DISCUSSION.

At a lunch meeting of the Dublin Rotary Club, in Kidd's Restaurant, yesterday—Mr. C. J. McLaughlin, President, in the chair—an address on "American Coal" was delivered by Mr. J. H. Gardner, of the Colliery Investment Trust of America.

Mr. J. H. Gardner said that his visit to Ireland had been a very pleasant one, and he hoped that it would be a means of helping to cement friendship between America and this country. There was at present a shortage of coal in this country, and the question arose as to where, under the circumstances, they should look for coal to keep their manufactures going. They had in this country 180 million tons of coal which he should like to see being worked. They had some of the finest analyses of anthracite coal in Ireland. In America they were in a position to export about eighty million tons of coal per annum after meeting their own needs. He had come there to talk of the possibility of America and Ireland coming together to solve this question to their mutual advantage.

As to the question of the American coal itself and the various descriptions of it, he had written so much in the newspapers that he need not now go into it. He wanted to know if it was not possible to come to some combination to use their coal and to provide for reciprocal trade between America and Ireland. In Ireland they had butter, marble, linen manufactures, and soforth, which would be available as return cargoes. He believed that the Port of Galway, which was 2,700 miles from New York, and only 126 miles from Dublin, would be the best port through which to import American coal for distribution in this country, and if Galway Port was extended and developed, it would be the means of saving 300 miles on the journey from America to Europe. He wanted them to consider whether Americans could not be of use to them and they of use to Americans. (Applause.)

"SLACK" IN THE COAL.

Mr. Jacob (Messrs. W. and R. Jacob, Ltd.) said that in connection with trade between Ireland and America, the question of tariffs was most important. He was told that the proportion of slack in the American coal which had come to Ireland was very high. He suggested that if Mr. Gardner could use influence to bring about a relaxation of the tariff it would be very helpful.

Mr. McGregor said that he was told by a friend who had purchased American coal that not less than 75 per cent. of it was slack, and he wanted to know if that was the usual proportion.

Mr. Kevin Kenny said that a small committee should be formed to go into all the important questions that had been raised.

Sir Thomas Robinson pointed out that the import duties in America were very high. He would welcome the importation of coal, or any other commodities, from America; but the whole matter boiled itself down to a purely business transaction—value for money. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Gardner, replying on points that had been raised, said that Irish marble could be sent to America as well as Italian marble, which was exported in large quantities. With regard to the quality of American coal, a cargo of it which had reached Belfast was described as one of the finest cargoes that had ever come to the port. An engine driver had said that he was ten minutes late when using American coal on a run from Dublin to Belfast, but it was found next day that he was twenty-five minutes late when he did not burn American coal. (Laughter.) The American coal was being used in the American, British, and Italian navies. He did not think it was policy to go into the question of prices, but he was sure that American coal could be brought here to compete with any coal in the world, both as to price and quality.

FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE.

THE DEPARTMENT AND PURCHASE TRANSACTIONS.

It is stated by the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland that in recent investigations consequent upon the appearance of foot-and-mouth disease among Irish cattle in Great Britain, considerable difficulties were experienced in tracing the history of these animals back to the farms, and in a number of instances it was found that the buyers of certain cattle were unable to state the names and addresses of the persons from whom they purchased certain animals, as at the time of purchase no record of the transaction in this respect had been kept.

In order that a dislocation of the export live stock trade may, as far as possible, be minimised, it is essential that shippers and owners of live stock should be in a position to inform the Department's officers of the names and addresses of the persons from whom cattle have been purchased. The Department, therefore, suggests that every person purchasing animals should note, at the time of purchase, the name and address of the vendor, together with a brief description of the animals purchased, and subsequently, if the animals are re-sold or consigned to Great Britain for sale, the name and address of the new purchaser or consignee, as the case may be, should be recorded.

PORT AND DOCKS BOARD'S ACTION.

LETTER TO MINISTRY OF AGRICULTURE.

A meeting of the special committee of the Dublin Port and Docks Board appointed to deal with the embargo on live stock was held yesterday. Present:—Mr. Field (in the chair), Mr. Leonard, Mr. Peters, Mr. Baird, and Mr. Ede.

The accompanying letter was ordered to be sent to the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, London:—

"Port and Docks Office, Dublin,
"23rd May, 1921.

"SIR,—The Dublin Port and Docks Board regret to observe that the shipment of store cattle from Ireland is again prohibited. Whilst recognising the necessity of taking all desirable precaution to prevent the spread of disease, this Board desire to point out the injurious effect which the prohibition has on the revenues of the port. The Board, in view of the fact that Dublin is situated ninety miles distant from New Ross, at which place the recent outbreak was discovered on two small adjoining farms, and that the Veterinary Department of Agriculture in Ireland have scheduled a district of fifteen miles area around New Ross, are of opinion that, after portal inspection, the export of stores should be permitted from the port of Dublin.

"Bearing in mind that in similar outbreaks of the disease in England the trade is allowed to be carried on by order, under conditions imposed outside the infected area, the request of the Dublin Port and Docks Board seems only reasonable.

"It is clearly in the interests of the two countries that, as far as possible, with due safeguards, the trade should be allowed to proceed, especially at this season of the year.

"We trust this statement of fact will receive careful and favourable consideration by your Ministry.—I am, sir, your obedient servant, (Signed) "E. H. BAILEY, Secretary.

"The Secretary, Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, 4 Whitehall place, London."

THE GERMAN EXCHEQUER.

BUDGET FIGURES ANALYSED.

In a telegram from Berlin, received last night, Reuter's Correspondent says:—Reviewing in to-day's Frankfurter Zeitung the development of the German taxation system since the inauguration of the Republic, a writer observes that the income derived from the new taxes in the first half of the financial year 1920 seemed to justify the scepticism and derision accorded to the financial reforms with which the National Assembly terminated its existence at the beginning of that year, for by the 30th September little more than a fourth of the estimated revenue had been collected. In the second half of the financial year, however, a decisive change became evident, and in October the monthly revenue of the Republic, which until then had been, on an average, two milliards, exceeded three milliards. For November the figures were 4.4 milliards; December, 7.1; January and February, 1921, 6.7 each, and March, 6.8 milliards. The total revenue from the 1st April, 1920, to the 31st March, 1921, amounted to 46.1 milliards, the estimated revenue having been 38.1 milliards. Indirect taxes had not only fulfilled expectations, but had partly surpassed them. These results were achieved despite grave defects in the fiscal organisation and a not inconsiderable amount of passive resistance.

The writer utters a warning, however, against being deluded into illusory optimism, the entire revenue being inadequate to meet half the expenditure. The 1920 Budget closes with a deficit of 86.6 milliards, to be covered by a loan, and the current Budget estimates a further increase of debt amounting to about 30 milliards, thus entailing more heavy sacrifices by the taxpayers.

FUNERAL OF CONSTABLE T. BRIDGES.

The remains of Constable T. Bridges, R.I.C., who was killed recently at Drumcollogher, Co. Limerick, were interred in the family burying ground, at Ardcarne, last Thursday. A short, impressive Service was conducted by the Ven. Archdeacon Wagner, LL.D., in the parish church, Boyle.

As the remains were borne from the church by the four brothers of deceased, a detachment of the Auxiliary Division presented arms. Four buglers of the Bedford Regiment and a detachment of the R.I.C., under command of the district inspector, with arms reversed, headed the procession.

The Burial Service was conducted by the Rev. J. MacCormac, M.A., of Ardcarne, assisted by the Ven. Archdeacon Wagner. Members of the R.I.C. formed the firing party, and the "Last Post" was sounded at the graveside by the buglers of the Bedford Regiment.

THEOSOPHY AND THE WORLD CRISIS.

LECTURE IN DUBLIN.

The first annual convention of the Theosophical Society in Ireland closed on Sunday evening last with a lecture by Mrs. Ransom (London Headquarters) at the Society's rooms, 16 South Frederick street, Dublin. The lecture was entitled "Theosophy and the World Crisis." The lecture was well attended, and an interested audience filled the Society's rooms. Mr. P. L. Poileu, General Secretary for Ireland, was in the chair.

In the course of her address, Mrs. Ransom said that she did not come offering cut-and-dried solutions. Theosophy was not a new way of approaching problems, but the old way which was eternally new. At present it seemed as if there was a stage of degeneration ahead of us, but present affairs were only a step on the way. Speaking on the principles of theosophy, Mrs. Ransom pointed out that all religions insist on dogma, but the Theosophical Society had none. She added a rider to this that a man was not a true member of the Theosophical Society unless he was doing something towards brotherhood. The Theosophical Society endeavoured to spread everywhere the point of view that religions were God-given, and it believed that every man should continue in the religion best adapted to him, taking only so much of theosophy as he needed. Mrs. Ransom then touched on reincarnation, stating that theosophists in general believed the human group to be a limited group, using this planet during a stage in its evolution as a school for the purpose of learning worldly lessons. Ages ago the lessons taught were simple, and not complex, as they were to-day. The soul was an abiding entity gradually accumulating experience by returning again and again to earth. The climax was the perfection of the human spirit. The Christ-life was the climax. Mrs. Ransom suggested, as a follow-on to this, that we were still in the childhood stage of human growth, and therefore capable of many blunders, and she went on to deal in turn with the theosophical aspects of politics (pointing to the League of Nations), industry (pointing to the march of labour), education (pointing to the modern idea that schools should not teach competition). She said that all growing things made difficulty, and, therefore, she did not greatly mind political and labour unrest.

Towards the end of her address she called on her hearers to be agents of co-operation and not of conflict, saying that God, like man, had His agents. So the present crisis in the world's affairs would pass. Love and brotherhood would be the keynotes of the new world.

RAILWAY CLERKS' CONFERENCE.

At the annual conference of the Railway Clerks' Association at Bournemouth yesterday, it was reported that steps were being taken to safeguard members' interests under the new Railways Bill, by protective clauses for ensuring the continuance of superannuation rights, compensation for dismissal, or detrimental changes in the staffs, the granting of locus standi for trades unions before the Amalgamations Tribunal, to settle the grouping of railways, and the appointment of a representative of Labour on the Rates Tribunal. The President, Mr. Gill, declared that nationalisation was the only solution of the railways problem.

AMERICA'S AMBASSADOR TO TURKEY.

Reuter's New York Correspondent says:—Mr. Henry Lane Wilson, former Ambassador to Mexico, is understood to be uppermost in President Harding's mind for appointment as United States Ambassador to Turkey, a post which has been vacant since the United States entered the war.

THE SHIP STEWARDS' STRIKE.

In connection with the strike of ship stewards at Southampton a large number of stewards on the White Star liner Olympic have decided to resist the wages reduction. The company, however, are confident that the vessel will sail as arranged on Wednesday. The places of stewards who have not reported themselves are being filled. Yesterday afternoon it was officially stated that about half the requisite number had been obtained. The Cunard Company have not yet commenced to sign on the crew of the Mauretania, due to sail on Saturday.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS.

STOCKS CLOSED IRREGULAR.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

NEW YORK, Monday.

Stocks opened irregular, and later advanced 1 to 5 points on a broad demand for all classes of shares. Mexican Petroleum being the strongest feature. The new offering of the French bonds is expected to have a good effect. The market then reacted on the weakness of sterling exchange and a bear raid on Motors, due to the further slowing up of business in that particular industry. Pierce, Arrow and Studebaker Common lost 4 points. Partial recovery followed on renewed buying of Mexican Oil and Tobaccos and covering on the easier money rates, but the closing was irregular.

SALE OF ALPINE AND ROCK PLANTS.

On Friday and Saturday last a sale of plants was held at Ballawley Park, Dundrum. The plants were carefully classified, named, and arranged under cover. They were packed in moss, and priced very moderately. The stock on sale consisted of surplus plants of about 200 varieties from the very extensive Rock Gardens, where visitors had an opportunity of seeing them in full growth and beauty. The sale will be continued to-morrow and Thursday, from 3 to 7 p.m. Ballawley Park is a short distance from Dundrum, on the Sandyford road.

DUBLIN SOCIETY FOR THE PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.

At the weekly meeting of the Committee Mr. William Perrin presided. The following were also present:—Mrs. Betham, Miss Tuckey, Miss Hilles, Miss Overend; Major Arthur Wheweil, Mr. W. E. Wilkinson, M.R.C.V.S. Three cases of cruelty were reported by the inspectors during the week, two to be summoned, one to be cautioned. The list of convictions obtained during the week in cases already reported was read. The reports on dogs sold and claimed at the Dogs' Home, Grand Canal quay, during the week were submitted.

The Committee had under consideration a letter from the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals relative to putting an end to the traffic of worn-out horses to the Continent. In addition to the letter there was a memorial from many Animal Protection Societies calling upon Parliament to oppose the tax or licence of £20 on every live horse, mule, or ass exported from the British Isles. The Committee unanimously passed a resolution adding the name of this Society to the manifesto.

The following contributions were thankfully acknowledged:—William Bewley, B.A., £1; Mrs. E. Elliott, £2 2/-; Mrs. Vesey, 2/6.

PROSPECTUS.

The present Company of Joseph Nathan & Co., Limited, was formed in 1899 to acquire the business of Colonial Merchants, Manufacturers, and Produce Brokers carried on in London and in Wellington, New Zealand, and elsewhere under the firm of Joseph Nathan & Co.

Mr. J. E. Nathan, the founder of the present business, commenced trading in Wellington, New Zealand, in 1857, and in 1874 established the firm of Joseph Nathan & Co. The London Office was opened in 1876.

At the present time, the business is one of the largest of its kind operating in the Dominion of New Zealand, and may conveniently be considered under three headings:—

GLAXO.—In 1908 the Company placed on the market a standardised, full-cream, dried milk for infants and invalids under the name and trademark of "Glaxo," which is registered throughout the world and is the sole property of the Company.

Glaxo has met with remarkable success and, from its inception, the sales have shown a steady and continuous increase, and it has now become one of the largest and most profitable branches of the Company's activities.

It has until recent years been advertised almost exclusively as an Infant Food, and, as such, has obtained its present pre-eminent position, but during the last two years the development of the sale of Glaxo for general household use and as a standardised Milk Diet, more particularly for Invalids, has been carried out with increasingly satisfactory results.

It is stocked throughout Great Britain, and the export trade embraces most countries.

Glaxo is also sold to over 2,000 Infant Welfare Centres, Municipal Health Departments, Hospitals and Institutions in this country.

This increased demand for "Glaxo" during the past ten years is shown in the following table of Net Sales, as certified by the Auditors to the Company:—

For the Year	Net Sales.
1911	£14,508
1912	£22,034
1913	£37,587
1914	£108,576
1915	£167,845
1916	£252,753
1917	£416,128
1918	£620,693
1919	£907,268
1920	£1,413,425

The quantity of Glaxo sold in each year during this period has shown a continuous increase, and the amount for the year ended the 30th September, 1920, was more than nine times in excess of the amount sold during the year ended 30th September, 1914, and exceeded 10,000,000 lbs.

The Glaxo sales for the first six months of the current financial year have resulted in an increase of over 90 per cent. over the corresponding six months of the year ending 30th September, 1920, and the Directors have every confidence in the future prosperity of this branch of the business. The ratio of net profits has been maintained and is satisfactory.

The rapid and continuous expansion has necessitated the provision of further capital and the proceeds of the present issue will be utilised to provide the additional factory equipment and extension and other capital requirements of Glaxo, and for general trade expansion.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—The Company carries on an extensive business in New Zealand Butter, Cheese, and Casein, and also in Commercial Milk Powder, and is one of the leading houses in the United Kingdom dealing in those products.

Satisfactory arrangements, which take effect upon the decontrol of Butter and Cheese by the Government, have already been made by which the Company will be enabled to handle considerable increased quantities of this produce, which it is anticipated will yield substantial profits.

The sale of Commercial Milk Powder is an important and profitable section of the Company's business and has from its commencement in 1908 expanded continuously, due largely to the increased use of Dried Milk, in place of liquid milk, by Chocolate, Biscuit and Margarine manufacturers. The turnover for the last financial year was ten times greater than that for 1914, and the Company now handles approximately 75 per cent. of the Commercial Dried Milk imported into Great Britain.

GENERAL MERCHANDISE AND AGENCIES.—A wholesale general merchandise business is carried on at the Company's large freehold premises in Wellington.

The Company holds a number of Colonial Distributing Agencies for important Firms doing a large and growing business in New Zealand, among which are:—The Salt Union, Ltd.; Richard Johnson & Nephew, Ltd., Wire Manufacturers; John Summers & Son, Ltd., Galvanised Iron Manufacturers; Cope Bros., Ltd., Tobacco. These Agencies are a source of strength to the Company in their trading in New Zealand and bring in a satisfactory return to the Company.

EARNINGS.—The Company has received the following Certificate from its Auditors:—

To the Directors of Joseph Nathan & Co., Ltd., 88, Gracechurch Street, E.C. 3. — 58, Coleman Street, London, E.C. 2, 27th April, 1921.

We hereby certify that the Profits of the Company for the five years ended 30th September, 1920, as shown by the Books before charging Interest on Borrowed monies, Income Tax and Land Tax (on undeveloped Land), Excess Profits Duty and Corporation Profits Tax, were as follows:—

Year ended 30th September,
1917	£47,501 16s. 9d.
1918	£55,590 2s. 5d.
1919	£76,905 4s. 11d.
1920	£136,256 15s. 1d.

The above Profits include realised Profits arising from the sale of Land or from Underwriting, etc., which now stand at the Credit of Reserve Accounts and have been credited against the item of Freehold Properties in the Company's Balance Sheet, as below:—

Year ended 30th September,
1917	£9,169 9s. 11d.
1918	£6,897 11s. 1d.
1919	£8,014 6s. 0d.
1920	£33,900 16s. 11d.

Yours faithfully,
JACKSON, PIXLEY & CO.,
Chartered Accountants, Auditors to the Company.

From this certificate it will be seen that the average profits for the last two years since the war amount to over ... £106,000

To pay the dividend on 250,000 "A" Preference Shares requires		£17,500
Leaving a balance available for the payment of Dividends on the Preferred Ordinary and Ordinary Shares of		£88,500
To pay the fixed Preferential Dividend of 8 per cent. on 400,000 Preferred Ordinary Shares requires		£32,000
Leaving a balance available for the payment of Dividends on the Ordinary Shares and for the further participation of the Preferred Ordinary Shares of		£56,500
To pay 8 per cent. on the issued Ordinary Shares requires	£9,464
To pay the full Participatory Dividend of 4 per cent., making in all 12 per cent. on the 400,000 Preferred Ordinary and issued Ordinary Shares, requires	£20,732
		£30,196
Leaving a Surplus of		£26,304

The above figures are exclusive of the earnings from the proceeds of the present issue, which will not only be sufficient to meet the charges for borrowed monies (which charges during this period averaged less than £11,000 per annum) but will add materially to the net profits earned by the Company.

DIVIDENDS.—The Company has, since its incorporation in 1899 until the present time, paid in each year Dividends on its Ordinary Share Capital at a rate of not less than 5 per cent.

The Preferred Ordinary Shares, which were created and issued in 1913, have in each year received their full preferential Dividend, and for the last two years have received the maximum participatory dividend to which they were entitled previous to the increase of their dividend rights in accordance with the terms of the present issue, as is shown by the subjoined Table of Dividends paid by the Company on the Preferred Ordinary and Ordinary Capital:—

For the year ended—	Preferred Ordinary.	Ordinary.
30th September 1918	8 per cent.	12 per cent.
" " 1919	10½ "	15 "
" " 1920	10½ "	15 "

ASSETS.—The Assets of the Company, after deducting all Liabilities, including liabilities to Bankers, and exclusive of the proceeds of the present issue for Cash exceeded £543,214 on the 30th September, 1920, as is shown by the Certified Balance Sheet of that date.

In calculating these Assets no value whatever has been placed upon the Company's valuable goodwill.

To these assets must be added the proceeds of the present issue, estimated at £270,000, making a total of net tangible assets (excluding uncalled Capital) of £813,214, or, after deducting 250,000 "A" Preference Shares, which have prior Capital claims, an amount equal to nearly one-and-a-half times the total issue of Preferred Ordinary Shares.

The Company owns as part of its Capital Assets various Freehold Properties and Lands in the City of Wellington and Borough of Palmerston North and among others the valuable site in Wellington, New Zealand, upon which are erected the up-to-date and well-equipped central offices known as "Nathan's Building." These lands and properties in New Zealand, which stand in the balance sheet at £74,445 11s. 2d., were revalued last year, as a result of which it was ascertained that the new valuations exceeded by over £100,000 the book values at which they are included in the Balance Sheet.

MANAGEMENT.—To ensure continuity of management the Directors have from time to time issued, at par, Ordinary and Preferred Ordinary Shares to the Chief Departmental Heads and Employees of the business.

APPLICATIONS.—Applications for shares should be made on the form accompanying this Prospectus and sent to the Company's Bankers—The Royal Bank of Scotland, 3, Bishopsgate, E.C.2, Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Branches in Scotland; The Union Bank of Australia, Ltd., 71, Cornhill, E.C.3; and London County Westminster and Parr's Bank, Ltd., 41, Lothbury, E.C.2, 21, Lombard Street, E.C.3, 4, Bartholomew Lane, E.C.2, and Branches—together with a remittance for the amount of the deposit. Where no allotment is made the deposit will be returned in full, and where the number of shares allotted is less than the amount applied for the balance of the deposit will be applied towards the amount due on allotment, and any balance remaining will be returned. Failure to pay any instalment on the shares allotted when due will render previous payments liable to forfeiture.

Existing holders of Preferred Ordinary and Ordinary Shares are being given the right to apply for and to have allotted to them, at par, shares of the present issue in the proportion of one new share for every share at present held by them. Applications from registered holders of "A" Preference Shares, members of the Medical and Nursing Professions, Trade Customers and Employees of the Company will receive preferential allotment.

INTEREST ON INSTALMENTS.—Interest at the rate of 10 per cent. will be charged on instalments in arrear.

BROKERAGE.—Brokerage at the rate of 3d. per share will be paid on allotments made in respect of applications bearing the stamp of Bankers, Brokers, or other approved Agents.

QUOTATION.—To comply with the requirements of the Committee of the Stock Exchange, certain alterations in the Articles of Association will have to be made. When these necessary formalities have been completed, application will be made for an Official Quotation of the Preferred Ordinary Shares of the Company.

PROSPECTUSES.—Prospectuses and forms of application for shares can be obtained from the Company's Bankers, Brokers and from the Secretary at the Offices of the Company.

SHARE CERTIFICATES.—Share Certificates will be issued in exchange for Allotment Letters after payment in full has been completed.

The following information is given in compliance with Section 81 of the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908:—

(a) The minimum subscription upon which the Directors may proceed to the first allotment of shares is fixed by the Articles of Association at seven shares.

(b) In the month of June 1919, 223,000 "A" Preference Shares of £1 each were offered for subscription and the whole of such 223,000 shares have been allotted and the sum of £1 in cash has been paid on each.

During the last two years 20,975 Preferred Ordinary Shares and 3,000 Ordinary Shares of £1 each were offered for subscription and the whole of such 23,975 Shares have been allotted and the sum of £1 in cash has been paid on each, and 5,000 Preferred Ordinary Shares have been issued as fully paid up otherwise than in cash to Herbert E. Pacey for services rendered by him to this Company in New Zealand.

(c) The following contracts have been entered into:—

1. AGREEMENT, dated the 2nd day of July 1920, between the Company of the one part and the Glaxo Manufacturing Co. (N.Z.), Ltd., of the other part.

2. AGREEMENT, dated the 6th day of April 1920, between the Company and Joseph Nathan & Co. (Australia), Ltd., of the one part and the Glaxo Manufacturing Co. (Australia), Ltd., of the other part.

3. AGREEMENT, dated the 7th day of April 1921, between Robert Charles Campbell Potter of the first part, Louis Joseph Nathan of the second part, and the Company of the third part.

4. CONTRACT, dated the 9th day of May 1921, between the Company and The English, Scottish and Colonial Investment Co., Ltd., providing for the Underwriting of the Shares now offered for an Underwriting Commission of four per cent. and an Overriding Commission of one per cent. on the nominal amount of such Shares and a fee of £1,000.

There are various Sub-Underwriting Contracts to which the Company is not a party.

(d) The right of voting at meetings of the Company is as follows:—On a show of hands each member has one vote and on a Poll each member has one vote for every Ordinary or Preferred Ordinary Share held by him and one vote for every complete number of five "A" Preference Shares held by him, except that the "A" Preference Shares do not confer on the holders thereof the right to vote either in person or by proxy at any general meeting of the Company unless the meeting is convened for reducing the capital or winding up or sanctioning a sale of the undertaking of the Company or unless the proposition to be submitted to the meeting directly affects the rights or privileges of the holders as a class or unless and so long as the dividend thereon is in arrear for more than three calendar months in any of which latter cases the holders of the "A" Preference Shares are entitled to vote on any resolution relating to the matters above specified.

(e) The names and addresses of the Auditors are set forth above.

(f) Copies of the Memorandum of Association and of the above-mentioned Contracts can be seen at the registered office of the Company by intending applicants between the hours of 11 a.m. and 4 p.m. on week days during the days the Subscription List is open—Saturday excepted.

THIS FORM OF APPLICATION MAY BE USED.

FINANCIAL NEWS

IRISH STOCK EXCHANGES

DUBLIN.

GUINNESS STRONG. BANK STOCK RELAPSE. SPINNERS AND BURKE DEBS. BETTER. RAILS HARD.

The majority of price movements on 'Change yesterday favoured holders, but business was quietly conducted, and, except in a couple of cases, active dealing was entirely absent. Nothing definite or new regarding the coal strike position can be pointed to, but the underlying feeling is that something good in this respect will be notified during the coming week, and that next month "full speed ahead" will be agreed to. The Funds were good, with War Loan 5 p.c. up to nearly 89 after hours. Victory Bonds were bid for, and Consols also hardened, while Land and India Stocks were neglected. Actual dealing in Banks was confined to Bank of Ireland Stock, which came on offer and fell smartly. There was more support for Breweries and Distilleries, with Guinness Ord. especially strong, and the price up to 39. John Power and Son 8 per cent. Cumulative Participating Preference advanced to a premium. Dundalk Steam, seldom dealt in, fell heavily. Marconis were unofficially 1/16 lower. Home Rails marked time, and finally closed firm. Provincial Trams were wanted. Spinners, in the Textile group, were better. Burke Debs. were in demand at an advance. Dunlop shares were dull, and sellers for choice. Leading Oil shares were busy. A. Millar and Co. 5 p.c. £5 Pref. shares have been converted into £1 shares, so that the quotation of 50s. for the former last week is equal to 10s. for the latter.

The Funds were in demand. Consols rose ¼ to 47⅞; War Loan 5 p.c. ⅛ to 88⅛, and By Deed to 88½. Funding Loan repeated 71½.

In Banks, Bank of Ireland stock fell 3 to 190.

The tone and tendency of Breweries and Distilleries were favourable. Guinness Ord. rose ⅝ to 39, after all offered at 38⅜ were absorbed. The Pref., at 9½, were steady. Power and Son Pref. rose 6d. to 20s. 6d.

In Steam, Dundalks fell 1⅞ to 5¼.

As regards Home Rails, Great Northern rose ½ to 55½; Dublin South Eastern ½ to 13½, and Great Southern and Western ½ to 42½. Midland Great Western was not wanted over 18.

Pre-Ordinary issues show no change.

In Trams, Provincial Ord. rose 6d. to 13s., and in Drapery Shares Arnott Debs. fell ⅛ to 5⅜.

Among Manufacturing Shares, Spinners rose 7½d. to 33s. 4½d., and British-American Tobacco 6d. to 67s. 6d., while Coats fell 3d. to 45s. 9d., and Vickers 1s. to 13s. 3d. Cotton Ord. at 34s. 6d. were steady.

As regards Trading, etc., Burke Debs. were bid up 1/16 to 6½ without getting a share. Yam Seng Rubber quoted 2s. 4d.

Other business done included Dunlop Rubber Ord. at 11s. 1½d., Imperial Tobacco at 48s. 7½d., Irish Packing at 4s. 3d., Lever Bros. Debs. 89½, Mexican Eagles 6⅝, 1/16, 1/32, and Shells 5⅞, 11/16.

AFTER HOURS.

At second 'Change Guinness shares further advanced to 39½, all shares offering below this price being absorbed.

BELFAST.

Business was on a moderate scale on Belfast Exchange. War Loan registered 88⅛. In Bank shares, London City and Midland brought 7⅛. Railways idle. In Industrials, Coats 45s. 10½d.; Inglis and Co. Ord. marked up to 32s.; Guinness Ord. 38⅜. White, Tomkins, and Courage Ord. brought 18s. 6d., Young and Anderson 5½ per cent. Pref. 10s. 6d., Workman Clark Debenture 91, British American Tobacco Ord. 34¼, and Dunlop Rubbers at 11s. Shell Transport changed hands at 5 11/16. Mexican Eagle Oil Ord. brought 6 1/16.

WAITING STOCKS.

MARKETS MONOTONOUS, DULL, AND APATHETIC.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Until the coal dispute is settled it seems hopeless to look for any material improvement in the condition of the Stock markets. They opened yesterday for the most part, and remained throughout the day, in the apathetic mood that prevailed nearly all last week. To a certain extent, the gilt-edged group furnished an exception to the general listless tendency. In Government Stocks and certain other gilt-edged securities there was a little more business passing than usual, but, even so, that was only indicative of the week-end accumulation of orders, which was by no means large. Strike "talk" was nowhere a topic of discussion. Members of the "house," in common with the public, have grown weary of the subject. The effect of the impasse has perforce to be endured, but the doings of the Australians at Lord's and the prospects of the first Test match at Nottingham afford much more agreeable topics. Neither the Portuguese "revolution" nor the serious news from Egypt of attacks on Europeans in Alexandria had any effect whatever upon the course of the national stocks concerned in the Foreign market.

LONDON STOCKS QUIETLY STEADY.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

On the London Stock Exchange the disposition was to await developments, and the movements of importance were few and far between. Business was mainly confined to the investment group of securities, though here and there activity was noticeable. There was no slackening in the demand for 5 per cent. War Loan, which was ⅛ up at 88⅛. Consols were steady at 47, while both Funding and Victory were higher at 71⅛ and 79⅛ respectively. The 3½ per cent. War Loan advanced to 88¼, and several of the National War Bonds were fractionally better. The Indian Scrip was scarcely so firm at 4 prem., but the Commonwealth Loan was good at 97⅛.

Among Foreign Government securities, a feature was the activity in German Fours, which rose to 7⅛, and the 3½ per cent. to 6 11/16, but the 3 per cent. at 7 were ½ lower. The market was a lively one, though best prices were not maintained. Chinese Fives of 1913 were bought, rising to 70, while French Loans were steady at 46 for the Fives and 35⅛ for the Fours. The San Paulo Loan was better at 1¼ prem. Mexican Sixes were up to 57⅛.

In Home Rails, there was a good demand for Underground stocks. Metropolitan Consols rose a point to 26¼. There was little change in the Heavy group. Great Westerns were 71, Midland remained at 47, North-Westerns at 73, and North-Eastern at 75. Brighton "A" was firm at 42½.

"Canpacs" were a point lower at 142. Grand Trunks were little changed. Mexicans were quite neglected, and former quotations were repeated, except for a drop of ½ to 16 in the Ord. Argentines lacked support, due to the news regarding labour troubles at the port of Buenos Ayres and the continued traffic decreases. Both Pacifics and Centrals were easier at 36 and 47 respectively, while "B.A.G.S." and Westerns were barely steady at 52½.

INDUSTRIALS IDLE.

OPERATIONS ONLY HALF-HEARTED.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

A half-hearted post awaited the opening of the Miscellaneous and Industrial market yesterday, the brighter coal outlook having failed to stimulate public interest, despite the firmness at the lower levels recently displayed by departments chiefly affected. As professionals were also still disinclined to enter into fresh commitments, an idle day was experienced, resulting in few movements of interest, and an irregular appearance as regards the rank and file of quotations. A sharp spurt occurred in British Oil and Cake Mills on the publication of the annual figures and the absence of new capital references. The rumoured issue of Pref. Shares has since been officially denied. As compared with the closing price on Friday, the price of the shares jumped 2s. to 25s. Other West African descriptions were slightly harder in sympathy, Lever Bros. 7 per cent. Pref. being 15s. 6d. and the 8 per cent. 16s. 1½d. African and Eastern were 35s. at one time. In Margarine shares, Maypole continued a dull market at 7s., but Van den Berghs at 40s. were 1s. 6d. up, and in Caterers, J. Lyons hardened to 4⅛. Among Miscellaneous descriptions, Sun Fuel fell back to 3s. 6d. on further consideration of the circular. Cements lost 3d. at 20s. 9d., and Wall Paper Def. 3d. at 7s. 3d. Firm spots included Borax Def. at 14⅜, Dennis Bros. Motors at 21s. 6d. x.d., and Imperial Tobaccos at 48s. 6d. On the remarks of the chairman at the meeting, Siemens Bros. were a harder market at 25s. 3d. In the Iron and Steel department quotations were for the most part maintained, and improvements were seen in Bolckow Vaughan at 18s. 6d. and Guest Keen at 32s. 3d. Vickers and Armstrongs were quite firm at 13s. 6d. and 17s. respectively. Brunner Mond were at 28s. 3d. Textiles were steady in the absence of business, Courtaulds being 36s., Amalgamated Cottons 13s., and British Cellulose the turn harder at 4s. Bays displayed strength in the Land section, rising to 7 on vague talk of oil discoveries. Pahangs were a few pence better at 6s. 9d. In Insurances, Prudential put on ¼ at 8, but Motor Union lost ground at 6, and other quotations showed no changes. Banks were firm, a rise of a point being seen in Hong Kong and Shanghai at 99. Barclays "B" were better at 45s., and National of Egypt improved to 17⅛. Better resistance was exhibited by the Shipping section than for some time past. Inquiries for Cunards resulted in an improvement of 9d. to 18s. Furness Withy were also a better market, advancing to 23s. 6d., or 6d. better. London United Trams Pref. continued to attract attention, the price gaining another 6d. at 4s. 6d. There was also an improvement in the 4 per cent. Debs., the quotation putting on a point at 36⅛. The Metropolitan Electric lists were understood to have closed soon after mid-day. Brazilian Traction at 35 were steady, though Barcelona Traction at 5 showed a loss of a point. Nitrates were idle, with Anglo-Chilian 11. The Wireless section continued to dwindle, Marconis falling off 1/16 to 2⅛, with the Pref. 1/16 lower at 2 7/16. In Cables, Eastern Telegraph further improved ½ to 165½. Anglo-American Pref. also rose to 80. Investment inquiries continued to stimulate one or two Brewery securities. Guinness Ord. at 385 were 5 points up, and South Africa improved to 1¼.

MINING MARKET UNINTERESTING

Apart from the continued firmness of the gilt-edged market, Stock Exchange conditions remained quiet in the extreme. The week-end had brought no accumulation of orders, and it was quite evident that the public prefers to await the clearing up of the labour position before venturing into the speculative arena. Meanwhile the underwriting of new issues occupies the attention of professional and semi-professional operators. Interest in mines is reduced to a minimum, and it is very unusual to find a dealer in these commodities who can boast even a moderately busy day. Nothing happened to disturb the calm of the Kaffir department, where a rise of 4d. to £5 3s. per oz. in the price of gold, reflecting the fall in the value of the dollar, passed almost unnoticed. The Paris exchange was a little less favourable, and the French capital took hardly any interest even in its favourites; but the Cape was reported to be firm, and thus of the few changes recorded the majority were in favour of holders. The cabled summaries of the meetings of the Geduld and Modder Deep induced a little inquiry for the shares, and City Deep were also harder; but as regards the general list there was not sufficient business to test quotations. Very few signs of life were observable in the Rhodesian department, but Chartered, after moving idly within narrow limits, closed rather buyers. There was also a disposition to pick up Tanganyikas, but no quotable change could be recorded.

OIL SHARE MARKET QUIET.

QUOTATIONS ARE SLIGHTLY EASIER.

(FROM THE FINANCIAL NEWS OF TO-DAY.)

Oil shares commenced the week in quiet fashion. A moderate amount of selling on Paris account was encountered about mid-day, but when operators in that centre found that the shares offered were absorbed without difficulty, they turned round buyers in a small way, with the result that prices hardened slightly right at the end, although small shrinkages were still general at the conclusion of business. There was very little doing in the "street," and prices hardly varied from those ruling at the official close. With so little business in progress dealers found time to discuss the forthcoming dividends of some of the leading concerns, and while some doubt appears to exist that companies such as the Shell Transport, Royal Dutch, and Burmah may not be able to maintain the distribution at the 1919 rate, it is thought that any reduction will be small, and that the reports will show a highly satisfactory state of affairs. Leading shares moved within narrow limits. Shells started at 5⅝, fell to 5½, and hardened at the end to 5⅝, at which a small gain was recorded. Mexican Eagles fluctuated between 6½ and 6⅝, closing at the latter, which left them a trifle down on balance, the Prefs. and New shares moving down in sympathy. Burmahs weakened slightly at one time, but finished unchanged. Royal Dutch also left off without alteration, but Anglo-Americans weakened. Trinidad issues commanded only a moderate amount of attention. The statements at the meeting of the Apex Trinidad Oilfields were regarded as satisfactory, but had no influence on the shares. Leaseholds and United British were quietly steady, but Centrals left off lower. In other directions, British Motor Spirits continued to display firmness in the early hours, rising to 12s., but receded later to 10s. 9d. Closing prices:—

RUBBER SHARES DULL.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Next to nothing was done in the Rubber share market, and the tendency in the absence of business was in the downward direction, though there was a little quotable change. Rubber Trusts were called 15s. 9d., Anglo-Dutch 26s., Vallambrosa 11s. 9d., and Linggis 27s. 6d. Kasintoe were easier at 13s. 9d.

COMPANY MEETING.

SIEMENS BROTHERS AND COMPANY, LIMITED.

BUSINESS MAINTAINED IN SPITE OF COAL SHORTAGE.

The fortieth annual general meeting of shareholders of this company was held yesterday at Winchester House, Old Broad street, London.

Mr. G. Mure Ritchie (the Chairman), who presided, first dealt with the balance sheet, and said he might point out that, while the total assets amounted to £3,552,341, the actual liabilities (other than share capital), consisting of 4½ Debenture Stock debt to the Public Trustee and sundry creditors, amounted to only £1,561,282, leaving assets of £1,991,069 (subject to certain duties) to represent the paid up share capital of £1,258,062. The profit and loss account showed a net profit of £253,254, against £211,209 for 1919, in both cases after meeting all charges. With the amount of £315,776 brought forward, there was a balance available for appropriation of £569,030. They had already paid an interim dividend of 5 per cent., free of tax, and had transferred £30,000 to the special surplus fund, and they recommended a final dividend of 1s. per share, free of tax, making 10 per cent., free of tax, for the year, leaving £435,218 to be carried forward to meet the liability for excess profits duty for the past three years and for the new corporation profits tax for last year.

With regard to the proposed increase of capital and bonus distribution, the Chairman remarked that the whole of the authorised Ordinary Share capital of £1,500,000 was issued and fully paid up. Any addition to the Ordinary Share capital was to be avoided if the company could issue new capital on another basis. The creation of £1,000,000 10 per cent. Preference Shares would place at the disposal of the Board capital powers for future requirements. In a progressive and prosperous business the necessity for additional capital recurred, and it should be provided in order to expand operations and augment profits. The Preference Shares proposed to be created would rank for dividend as from 1st July next, and would be allotted to the shareholders on the register on 7th June next in the proportion of one new Preference Share for every five Ordinary Shares held, with fractional certificates for any odd amounts. He wished to make it clear that the bonus distribution did not trench upon the company's various reserve funds, which amounted to over £212,000.

Proceeding to refer to the trade position and prospects, the Chairman said—The total value of orders received in 1920 amounted to £4,025,685, against £2,854,712 in 1919. (Applause.) We are fortunate in having a world-wide reputation and far-reaching trade connections in Britain, in her Dominions overseas, and in foreign countries, and the variety of our more important manufactures is such that, as was the case in 1920—though orders fall off in some lines they increase in others, and so on balance the business and the profits have grown since we last met you; and I am pleased to say that, while 1920 was substantially better than 1919, we expect 1921 to be better than 1920, and that we anticipate no difficulty in maintaining in respect of 1921 the 10 per cent. free of tax Ordinary dividend. (Applause.) Of the remoter future you will not expect me to prophesy. There must be downs as well as ups, but I have every confidence that, on the whole, Siemens Brothers will continue to expand and prosper. (Hear, hear.) As to manufacturing operations in 1920, the cable departments have been fully occupied, particularly those sections dealing with the manufacture of submarine telegraph cable, underground super-tension power mains, and telegraph trunk lines. With regard to submarine cable, the manufacture of which has been the principal feature of the Woolwich works for more than half a century, the 1920 output was greater than that in 1919. The international character of this section of our business will be recalled when I say that during 1920 submarine telegraph and telephone cables were manufactured for use in many parts of the world, and that in the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, in the Mediterranean, the Red Sea, the Baltic, the Sea of Japan, and along the coasts of Peru and Chile our manufactures are playing an important part in establishing means of rapid communication between all nations. Our cable steamer Faraday again did good service, having been occupied from April to September laying submarine telegraph cables along the coasts of Peru and Chile, and in October in laying a telephone cable in the Baltic for the Swedish Government. The ship is leaving soon to lay cables in the Gulf of Mexico; but she is approaching the end of her career, having been launched as far back as 1874, and we may find it necessary to replace her in the not remote future.

To recur to submarine telephone cables, a considerable quantity of this type has been ordered, and the new machinery which was installed for the purpose of producing continuously loaded cables has been fully occupied. Several schemes for international cables are now under consideration, and there is every sign of a considerably increased demand in those parts of the factory devoted to the production of electric cables and wires. Our manufacturing facilities have been taxed to their utmost limit, and to enable us to complete contracts within reasonable time we introduced a three-shift system of working in some of our shops, thus giving employment for 200 additional men and 100 extra women, who would otherwise probably have swelled the ranks of the unemployed. (Applause.) As to underground telephone cables, the demand for the paper insulated type has increased, and the factory has been fully occupied chiefly in the production of trunk mains. The export business in loop cables has also increased. The volume of business in the apparatus department in 1920 was considerably greater than in 1919, and this was the case in all branches of work—telegraph apparatus, marine and mine signalling apparatus, measuring and scientific instruments, and wireless telegraphy all show an increase. Close co-operation has been effected with the associated firm of Elliott Brothers, whose reputation in the lines of their highly specialised mechanisms is world-wide, and the priceless value of whose services during the great war is not, and never can be adequately realised, except by those mathematical scientific and nautical experts attached in an environment of all possible secrecy to the British Admiralty. Business, both automatic and manual, in telephone exchange and apparatus has also increased satisfactorily. In manual exchanges we during 1920 obtained contracts for no less than fourteen public telephone exchanges for the British Post Office. We put into satisfactory operation four public exchanges; others are now being installed, and the remainder are in an advanced stage in our workshops.

We have been entrusted with considerable extensions to the exchange already made and installed by us for automatic telephony for the Post Office, and, in addition, we have in hand a large new exchange for public services, and, among others, a large automatic exchange for service at one of the naval dockyards. We have also made a large number of small automatic exchanges for private customers.

An extension of our workshops for the better production of telephone apparatus was taken in hand in 1920, and, although progress was slow owing to building trade conditions, the work is now nearing completion, and we shall soon have the benefit of this addition to our floor space. In 1920 there was a marked increase in orders for landlines, including poles, and, with the reduced prices now prevailing, further increase is to be expected, as landline developments have been inadequately made during recent years. As stated last year, the quality of our ebonite was such that the demand far exceeded the supply, and we were compelled to refuse orders. We met this position, and consequently in 1920 we supplied over double the value of ebonite supplied in 1919. In cable accessories and joint boxes in 1920 the turnover was more than twice that of 1919.

STANNOS WIRING SYSTEM.

The "Stannos" wiring system is now firmly established as one of the most inexpensive and reliable wiring systems on the market, and the number of contractors using this system has increased remarkably. The "Stannos" system has proved ideal for both wiring and distribution when applied to housing schemes, and has been used to a considerable extent during 1920 for this purpose. 1920 was marked by large fluctuations in the prices of what may be termed the raw materials of our industry, but we anticipate no loss on materials bought nor on stocks in hand. (Applause.) The difficulties of manufacture during the year were also accentuated by the numerous industrial disputes which occurred in other trades. Every industry is so dependent on others that disturbances of normal conditions in any trade invariably makes itself felt in others, of which fact no more calamitous illustration has ever been experienced in this country than the present coal strike. It will, therefore, be appreciated that a great responsibility is borne by the management during such periods as we have passed through since 1918, and which still exist. Here, therefore, let me express the Board's sense of grateful appreciation, in which the shareholders will join, of the exceedingly capable, skilful, and conscientious way in which their onerous duties have been discharged by all the members of our staff, including the foremen. (Applause.)

RELATIONS WITH EMPLOYEES.

Relations continue to be maintained on a satisfactory footing, perhaps not the least important reason being the excellent results achieved by the Cable Industry Joint Industrial Council, which has agreed on a complete schedule of grading wages for male and female labour employed in all processes of electric wire and cable making. Moreover, the welfare of the employés continues to receive attention, in which connection the most important recent development is the acquisition by the firm of a sports ground in the neighbourhood of Woolwich works, which is at present being laid out to enable cricket, football, tennis, and other forms of sport to be enjoyed by the employés. (Applause.) I have never heard of any strike at our Woolwich works, and on enquiring this morning I have been unable to get any definite information. There is a kind of tradition that somewhere more than a generation ago there was a stoppage, connected remotely with an engineering strike which was then in progress, but apparently we have had no strike of our workmen within the memory of man. (Applause.)

In the course of some remarks on the coal strike, the Chairman said—It is fortunate that, unlike what are known as the heavy trades, we use only a trifling quantity of fuel, and you will be glad to know that so far our operations have not been interrupted. (Applause.) He concluded by moving the adoption of the report and accounts and the declaration of the dividend recommended.

Lord Queenborough seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

At an extraordinary general meeting which was afterwards held resolutions increasing the capital by £1,000,000 by the creation of 1,000,000 10 per cent. Cumulative Preference Shares of £1 each and altering the articles of association were unanimously passed.

THE MONEY MARKET.

CONDITIONS MUCH HARDER.

Bank Rate (changed April 28th, 1921) ... 6½ p.c.

(FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

The easier conditions of the week-end quite disappeared yesterday, and supplies of floating credit in the London Money market were very short, owing to the calling in of loans by some of the banks. A small amount of old money was renewed at 5 p.c., but the bulk of the business in fresh loans was from 5½ to 6 p.c., and the market had to go to the Bank for a fairly large sum at 7 p.c. for a week. Dealings in bills were chiefly confined to Treasuries, which changed hands round about 5⅝ p.c. The number of commercial bills offering was small.

The price of gold rose 4d. to 103s. per oz. fine owing to the fall in the American exchange. The amount available was taken for the United States. Bar silver was ⅛d. higher for cash at 33⅛d. per oz. The market was affected by bear covering and small supplies.

The principal feature in foreign exchanges was the sharp drop in the American rate to 3.97⅛. There appears to have been speculative selling after the recent appreciable upward movement. The market all round was unsettled, mainly attributable to speculative operations. Paris cheque opened at 45.80, and steadily rose to 47.00, showing a considerable depreciation on the franc for the day. The Belgian franc followed suit, and the Italian lire was worth less compared with the £ sterling. The Greek drachma improved in value.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

INGLIS AND CO., LTD.—10 per cent. per annum, and a bonus of 1/- per share, together with 2/- per share, both free of income tax.

GREAT NORTHERN TELEGRAPH.—Total dividend and bonus of 24 per cent. for the year 1920.

NORTH LONSDALE IRON.—Dividend of 2½ per cent., less tax, for half-year ended 30th April.

CASSEL CYANIDE.—Interim dividend of 4d. per share, less tax.

GREAT BOULDER PROP. GOLD MINES.—Dividend of 6d. per share, less tax.

UNION FONCIERE D'EGYPTE.—Dividend of 5/- per share.

CHATHAM EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Further dividend of 10 per cent. per annum, less tax, for second half-year.

ALOR PONGSU RUBBER ESTATE.—Further dividend of 5 per cent., less tax, making 10 per cent. for the year.

SHANGHAI ELECTRIC CONSTRUCTION.—Dividend of 8 per cent., less tax, making 20 per cent. for the year.

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN CO.—Further dividend of 30/- per share, free of tax, with a bonus of 20/- per share.

MOTOR UNION INSURANCE.—Dividend of 4/- per share on Ordinary, making 50 per cent. for the year.

INVESTMENT TRUST CORPORATION.—A final dividend of £8 10/- per cent., making, with the interim, a dividend of 14 per cent. on the Def. Stock for the year, comparing with 13 per cent. last year.

HARPER BEAN.—Directors state that the unavoidable delay in the issue of the annual report and balance sheet for the period ended December 31st last, has arisen in consequence of the position of A. Harper, Sons, and Bean, Ltd., the capital of which is owned by the company. Steps have been taken with a view to the reconstruction of the affairs of A. Harper, Sons, and Bean, Ltd., but it is feared that some weeks must elapse before the negotiations are complete. It is, therefore, proposed to postpone the calling of the annual general meeting until the above negotiations are complete, and it is hoped that the directors' report and accounts will be before the shareholders within the next two months.

NOBEL INDUSTRIES, LTD.—The directors have now received from their constituent companies sufficient particulars of the trading results for 1920 to indicate that the profits of that year will not be less than those of the preceding year. They are of opinion that, despite the satisfactory character of these results, in view of the serious position in the coal-mining industry, upon which many of their factories are dependent, and of the impossibility of judging how long present conditions arising therefrom may last, it is necessary to conserve their resources in every way, and not to make such distribution of profit as would in normal circumstances be justified. They, therefore, do not propose to recommend the payment of any dividend on the Ordinary Shares, but to carry forward the whole available balance of profit to the year 1921. The Pref. dividend due on the 1st August next will be paid in the ordinary course.

LEOPOLDINA RAILWAY.—In view of the serious fall in the Brazilian exchange, which has affected the receipts of the company for several months past, the Board regret that they are unable to recommend the payment of a dividend upon the Ordinary Stock, and, therefore, propose to carry forward the balance of £176,718 8/2, as against £135,726 13/7 last year. The gross currency receipts for the year were Rs. 43,603,000, as compared with Rs. 37,385,000, an increase of Rs. 6,218,000, or 16.63 per cent.; the gross sterling receipts being £2,622,151, as compared with £2,284,406, an increase of £337,745, or 14.78 per cent. The average rate of exchange was 14⅛d., as against 14⅛d. per milreis, an increase of ⅛d., or 2.41 per cent. The working expenses amounted to £2,068,529, or 78.89 per cent., as compared with £1,663,362, or 72.82 per cent. in 1919. The receipts from passenger traffic show an increase of £65,395, or 16.35 per cent.; from parcels and baggage, an increase of £16,885, or 11.33 per cent., and from goods traffic, an increase of £252,738, or 15.26 per cent.

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Remarkable figures of the net sales of Glaxo are disclosed in the prospectus of Joseph Nathan and Co., Ltd., which undertaking is making an issue of 300,000 8 per cent. Cumulative Participating Preferred Ordinary Shares of £1 each, participating up to 12 per cent. The preparation and sale of Glaxo is not the only business of the company. It carries on an extensive business in New Zealand butter and cheese, has a large wholesale general merchants' business in that colony, and also acts as distributing agent for many important English firms. Existing holders of Pref. and Pref. Ord. Shares are given the right to apply for the new issue in the proportion of one new share for every share at present held by them, and applications from registered holders of "A" Pref. Shares, members of the medical and nursing profession, trade customers, and employés of the company will receive preferential allotments.

The estimated operating profit of the Esperanza Mine for the month of April is $2,318.

The rumour to the effect that a new issue of shares by the British Oil and Cake Mills is contemplated is entirely without foundation.

Plenty of new capital issues are on the tapis. There is talk of a big industrial debenture issue soon of a couple of millions. The new Five-Town Loan may be expected as soon as the Conversion Loan lists close on the 28th. There is also a big theatrical issue looming on the horizon of more than ordinary interest, especially to opera lovers.

Another "cuckoo" is about to descend on the share market in the shape of a new French oil share born early this year, and in which it is expected dealings will open in the course of a few days. The new company has a nominal capital in francs of £4,000,000, and has been created under the sheltering wings of prominent French and British oil groups. I ("Midas," in the Financial News) shall be interested to learn what the new bird has to say for itself, and how we are to dabble in a French share with a movable rate of exchange.

The Workington Correspondent of the Financial News, telegraphing on Monday, says:—A big colliery deal in West Cumberland was completed to-day, a firm of Irish coal merchants and shippers acquiring the St. Helen's Colliery and Brickworks Co., Ltd., with its two collieries, coke ovens, and two colliery villages, from the Alby United Carbide Factories, Ltd. When the control was bought two years ago the purchase price was £250,000. It will be remembered that in 1919 practically the whole of the share capital of the St. Helen's Colliery and Brickworks Co. was acquired by the Alby Carbide Co., and it was naturally anticipated that the coal and coke from the collieries would be available for the purposes of the business, but the effect of the recent restrictions on export was that the company was prevented from using the output of its own collieries for its own requirements. Every effort was made to meet this position by the study and adoption of new methods for reducing the proportion of coal or coke used. These include the valuable process for producing an agglomerate flux, the patent for which is held by the company. Early in the present year the Alby Carbide Board was reorganised, and funds were temporarily arranged.
